LONG RUSHES HIS DRASTIC PROGRAM THROUGH; OIL TAX

ALL CITY OFFICES IN CITY OF ALEXANDRIA ABOLISHED
BY ONE MEASURE

By ED DESOBRY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 20.—(P)—Huey Long's special session of the legislature adjourned at noon today after enacting 31 new laws.

Long, through his new bills, took a big leap into local government in the state, put taxes on the "big money interests" and launched a few "poor people" and altruistic projects.

Through bill amendments slipped in today and yesterday Long's administration took control of the city government of Alexandria, made sweeping changes in the government of Baton Rouge and put a tax on his old self-assured enemy, the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana.

The senate temporarily revolted today and defeated one of Long's bills, but when Long strode in later, smiling happily, the chair reversed its previous ruling and declared the measure passed.

Long had never forgotten the Standard Oil Company whose opposition to a tax identical to the one he imposed today on the refining of oil, he credited with causing the imprisonment of hundreds of representatives in 1929.

An amendment fixing the tax at five cents per barrel of 45 gallons on the refining of oil was slipped into an apparently harmless bill almost unnoticed in the house and the bill was quickly passed and sent over to the senate, which likewise passed it.

"That's what I called the legislature for," Long said in reference to the bill, laughing gleefully.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT TULSA YOUTH BEING CLOSELY CHECKED

ALREADY MYSTERIOUS KEN-NEMER-GORRELL CASE

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 20.—(P)—The attempted suicide of a youth registered from Tulsa at a Kansas City hotel was checked by police today to determine if the act had a possible connection with the fatal shooting of John E. Kennemer, Jr., here Thanksgiving night.

Registered as E. R. Schroeder of Tulsa, the young man slashed his wrist and turned on the gas in his room, but was rescued and treated for his wounds. Ten minutes later he disappeared.

Kansas City police were asked to search for him after County Attorney Holly Anderson said he had "fair recollection" authorities wanted to question a man named "Schroeder or Schroeder" who was a friend of Kennemer.

Phil Kennemer, 19-year-old son of a federal judge, is being held on a first degree murder charge in the Kennemer case. He claimed he shot the 23-year-old dental student in self defense after a dispute over an extortion note allegedly intended for a wealthy Tulsa family.

Ten days after the shooting, Sidney Born, Jr., a friend of both youths, was found fatally wounded. His death was described as suicide by police, and as murder by sheriffs' officers.

The third Tulsa youth to meet a violent death in the past three weeks was Carl Pulliam, 17, who was shot and killed yesterday while playing "gangster." Sergeant Earl Porter said Paul Lumary, 15, admitted firing the fatal shot, saying he believed the weapon was unloaded.

ALLRED PLEDGES TO HARMONIZE PROGRAM WITH FEDERAL PLAN

GOVERNOR-TO-BE SAYS AL-LOCATION FUNDS NOT DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—Governor-elect James V. Allred of Texas assured Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, today the Texas relief program in the next two years would be harmonized with the administration's plan.

Allred said allocation of government funds were not discussed.

"The national government attitude will not be known until congress meets and the state's program has to be harmonized with that," he said.

"I told Hopkins I was proud of the fact the democratic state convention last September went on record as favoring work relief instead of direct relief."

He said Texas would have $3,500,000 of relief money available when he takes office January 15. He estimated that the money was being spent at the rate of about $1,000,000 a month.

Allred was accompanied to his conference with Hopkins by Lawrence Westbrook, assistant to Hopkins in rural rehabilitation work.

Both Westbrook and Allred expressed opposition to the proposal of business men meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., that the federal relief bureau should be returned to the state.

"It is just like taxes," Allred said. "The government is much better equipped to handle that matter."

"Rural rehabilitation is the obvious problem in Texas," relief, Westbrook said.

ROOSEVELT READY EXAMINE BUSINESS PROGRAM 'ON MERITS'

VARIED COMMENTS GREET OFFERING OF THE NA-TION'S LEADERS

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

(Copyright, 1934 By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—President Roosevelt was pictured by high authorities today as ready to examine "on its merits" the program for recovery which captains of industry are bringing here after a three-day conference at White Sulphur Springs.

The opinion expressed in official quarters was that the president would be glad to receive any "co-operative suggestions" from business, labor, farmers and other groups he puts his ideas on paper for the congress meeting January 3.

Many commentators viewed the platform of the "business conference for recovery" as conciliatory in tone, although clashing in certain respects with ideas of some new deal leaders.

FIGHT OVER LIQUOR CONTINUES

Old-time saloon bar.

Liquor store in Silver Springs, Md. Rep. John J. O'Connor.

The arrival of the birthdays of two important pieces of legislation on the liquor question—Dec. 5, for repeal, and Jan. 16, for prohibition—finds the opposing forces on the liquor problem still fighting.

Undaunted by repeal, the anti-liquor groups are battling for more stringent laws and return to prohibition. Repeal supporters are striving to rid the nation of bootlegging, an evil carried over from prohibition days. Revelation of statistics showing a heavy illicit liquor trade since the advent of repeal has led Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York, a leader in the repeal drive, to predict that congress would investigate a "whiskey trust," believed responsible for renewed bootlegging activities.

NATIONAL GUARDS IN CONTROL TENNESSEE CITY; TWO KILLED

COURT HOUSE BURNED IN EFFORT TO LYNCH NEGRO ACCUSED ATTACKING GIRL

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20.—(P)—The riot-torn town of Shelbyville settled back today into its usual peaceful ways that were in sharp contrast to yesterday's stormy outbreak which left two dead, almost a score wounded and the one towering court house a mass of blackened ruins.

E. K. Harris, the 22-year-old negro whose alleged attack on a white school girl precipitated the riot, remained in the storm-proof jail at Nashville, while 600 national guardsmen occupied Shelbyville to prevent a recurrence of the disorders that reached a climax last night with the firing of the $150,000 court house.

The scene had changed entirely, the people talked good naturedly about the militiamen who moved in this morning on orders of Gov. Hill McAlister. Their comrades sent here yesterday in an effort to protect the negro and avert bloodshed had been targets for jeers and threats after their volleys poured into a mob battling at the court house doors.

The guardsmen took things easy. For the most part they lolled around their headquarters in the police station, their military activities limited almost entirely to marching to their meals in a hotel.

Apparently the mob spirit had died and business was brisk in advance of the holiday.

So far no investigation of the trouble has been started. Circuit Judge T. L. Coleman, was on the bench while the mob stormed the doors, said he planned a conference with the prosecuting attorneys, but the time has not been fixed.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 20.—

(P)—Senator Huey P. Long today had a bill amended for apparent certain passage in his controlled legislature to abolish "city offices" in the municipality of Alexandria, La., and to consolidate the mayor's and commissioner of parks and streets offices in Baton Rouge.

Revolting momentarily, the legislature killed a minor bill, then hurried to passage of a bill levying a tax on the refining of oil. The same sort of act which failed of enactment just preceding

French Girl to Die For Poison Death of Father

PARIS, Dec. 20.—(P)—The mother here is accused of having killed her 15-year-old daughter today of Violette Noziere, 19-year-old girl who has been sentenced to the guillotine for poisoning her father.

A petition, pleading for mercy for the girl, was dispatched to President Albert Lebrun by Mme. Noziere, who, it was brought out, was also marked for death by the daughters.

The girl killed her father, authorities charged, to obtain an inheritance that she might continue a life of safety in the student quarter. Her plight is being widely discussed along Paris boulevards.

Public opinion is divided as to whether President Lebrun should commute the sentence to life imprisonment, the custom of many years standing in France when the condemned is a woman.

PRESIDENT ORDERS FEDERAL TREASURY INVESTIGATE TAX SYSTEMS PREVENT OVERLAPPING

WASHINGTON, Dec.—(P)—In a move intended to prevent the overlapping of taxes, President Roosevelt today directed the treasury to investigate the federal, state and municipal tax systems.

A national conference on taxation next summer may result from the inquiry.

Secretary Morgenthau disclosed the plan today and shortly will name a staff to make the inquiry.

"The study will look forward to zones of taxation and eliminating overlapping," Morgenthau said. "It will be a long study with the possibility the president may call a conference next summer of the various agencies involved in taxation."

Broadening federal inquiries into bank credit conditions, Morgenthau also announced the treasury would make a special study in the Cleveland federal reserve district to supplement its recent inquiry in the Chicago region.

The Cleveland study will be headed by Doctor Jacob Viner and Professor Charles O. Henry, the

Band of Robbers Get Large Amount Cash Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—(P)—

A robber band of five, one of whom police said they believe may have been the fugitive killer, Robert Mals, invaded a branch office of the Philadelphia Electric Company today, scooped up $48,000 in cash, and fled in a waiting car.

Two of the 60 employees held up by the bandits partially identified the robber leader as Mals, a fugitive from a Virginia prison from which he shot his way to freedom while awaiting execution for the slaying of a mail employee.

Four of the robbers staged the holdup while the fifth waited in the bandit car, motor running, in front of the building.

They timed their invasion to take place just as 60 employees of the company waited in front of cashier's cage to have their pay checks cashed.

Wm. F. Gettle, Kidnap Victim, Guarded Again

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—(P)—A victim of kidnappers who held him for $60,000 ransom last May, William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills millionaire, was being guarded today against another possible abduction plot.

Authorities disclosed they provided him with a police guard last Monday when a crudely worded letter threatening harm to Gettle and members of his family, was sent through the mail from Long Beach to the capitalist. The letter demanded a sum of money be paid to a woman, who was to be described in a second letter which Gettle had not received.

Immediately after reading the ransom demand, Gettle informed police and told them he was afraid either he or members of his family would be kidnapped.

Police promptly placed a 24 hour guard about his Beverly Hills home and on his Arcadia estate from which he was snatched in a sensational kidnapping last spring.

Three members of the gang which kidnapped Gettle are serving life sentences in San Quentin prison. They were captured five days after Gettle was abducted.

Freighter Is In Distress South Of Fire Island

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(P)—Rudderless and buffeted by a gale sweeping the Atlantic, the American freighter Severeance, of Boston, sent out an SOS today from a position eighteen miles south of Fire Island.

The coast guard immediately ordered the seagoing tug Champlain from Gravesend Bay, to the scene. Coast guard officials estimated the Champlain should reach the Severeance about noon.

The effect of the gale at sea was felt in New York today, a 48-mile an hour wind blowing through the city in the morning.

HUGE WRITEUP OF CITIES SERVICE ASSETS REPORTED

TRADE COMMISSION RECEIVES REPORT THAT $82,000,000
ADDED IN SIX YEARS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—Testimony that there had been a write-up of $82,000,000 between 1924 and 1930 in the assets of the Cities Service, Power and Light Company, Henry L. Doherty holding concern, was received today by the trade commission.

The purported write-up, immediately challenged by Robert Burns, Cities Service counsel, was reported by Randolph K. Ogile, commission examiner.

Testifying under the commission's utility investigation, Ogile said the principal write-up occurred when the Cities Service Power and Light company was organized by Henry L. Doherty and company to take over from Cities Service company its security holdings of Electric light and power companies and substantially all of its security holdings of gas distributing and street railway companies.

Ogile asserted that Cities Service company an aggregate of $100,000,000 in bonds, preferred stock and common stock and cash for the transferred securities. He said the purchase price was $59,000,000 more than the Cities Service company's original investment.

The acquired securities were then carried at $109,187,645 on the books of Cities Service Power and Light, the examiner testified, bringing the total write-up at the time of organization to $69,129,793 or 173 per cent.

ITALIAN TROOPS JOIN FORCES OF BRITAIN IN SAAR REGION; NAZI PRESS VERY SARCASTIC

By M. K. WHITELEATHEN

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Dec. 20.—(P)—Troops of Premier Mussolini joined with forces of King George in a Saar expedition today when 40 soldiers arrived escorted by a trainload of armaments, blankets, and motor trucks used by Italy's 1,500 men who will serve in the League of Nations international peace force here.

A dubious population, standing in the rain, saw the supply train come in but the troops were in good humor after a friendly welcome by French soldiers at Saarbrücken, the French town on the Franco-Saar frontier.

The Poles greeted the Italian soldiers with tall bottles of red wine and long sticks of bread.

Woman and Three Little Sons Are Sought By Court

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—(P)—

Mrs. Ann Hamilton Cusack, estranged wife of Charles Edmund Cusack, member of a wealthy Chicago family, and her three sons were sought by authorities today after the woman was alleged by her husband to have defied a court order restraining her from removing the children from Los Angeles county.

Mrs. Cusack, her husband said, apparently had taken the children to the home of her parents in Cuero, Texas, for the Christmas holidays. The sons range from 5 to 9 years of age.

Under a court order for custody of the children pending settlement of the marital dispute, Mrs. Cusack was given custody of the children on week days and the husband on week-ends with the provisions the children should not be removed from the county.

Cotton Ginnings Reached 9,174,241 Bales December 13

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to December 13, was reported today by the census bureau as 9,174,241 running bales, counting 1,757,777 round bales as half bales and including 11,070 bales of American Egyptian.

To the date last year 12,356,278 running bales had been ginned, including 569,182 round bales and 6,280 bales of American-Egyptian, and to December 13, 1932, ginnings were 12,081,404 bales, including 622,016 round bales and 6,680 bales of American-Egyptian.

Ginnings by states to December 13 this year, were:

Alabama, 930,784 running bales; Arizona, 88,015; Arkansas, 61,512; California, 232,290; Florida 24,140.

Henry Ford of France Facing Finance Trouble

PARIS, Dec. 20.—(P)—The cabinet attempted today to avert a major business crisis as a result of the threatened crash of the Citroen Auto Works, one of France's biggest firms.

Andre Citroen, head of the company and France's "Henry Ford," filed a petition for a receivership while one of his creditors asked a court to place the firm in bankruptcy.

Several plans to rescue the company have failed in recent months because Citroen, who made the 2,000,000,000 franc (approximately $130,000,000) company a "one-man" concern declined to allow himself to manufacturing and allow banks and creditors to handle the finances.

WOMAN'S CONDITION REPORTED CRITICAL RESULT AUTO CRASH

MRS. CARL WAITS HAD NOT REGAINED CONSCIOUSNESS
AT NOON THURSDAY

Mrs. Carl Waits, 2218 West Second avenue, 47-year-old saleswoman, is in a critical condition in the Navarro Clinic, as a result of head and body injuries received when she was struck by an automobile about 7 o'clock Wednesday night. The accident happened near the corner of West Second avenue and Thirty-first street.

The injured woman received a bad gash, which resulted in a cerebral hemorrhage, internal injuries and a badly cut right shoulder, and other cuts and bruises about the face and body. The attending physician and hospital attendants said she has only a slight chance for recovery. She was taken to the hospital in a Corley ambulance in an unconscious condition, and hospital attendants reported at noon Thursday she had not regained consciousness.

City officers investigating the accident Thursday morning reported Mrs. Waits was struck by an automobile driven by Meritt Drane, III, who stopped as quickly as possible and asked the assistance of others who reached the scene in putting the injured woman into his car to be taken to a hospital. It was quickly decided, however, to summon an ambulance because of the apparent condition of the woman.

Officials of the Rengo agency, however, declined to accept responsibility for the views set forth in the article, explaining they came from an anonymous and unidentified naval critic, to whom the article continued, is superior to the American in moral courage.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S FIGHT FOR POWER "YARDSTICK" TAKING IN CONSTANTLY BROADER FIELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—The fight which finds President Roosevelt and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia warring "yardstick" at power leaders took on broader significance today when it was learned their threat implies greater possibilities than just a street fighting plant in Manhattan built with federal funds.

Though everything is tentative, Administration officials declare it hinges on proof that municipal plants can operate cheaper than private ones—the smiling New York mayor dropped two definite hints:

1. That New York City might go into the power business to sell electricity direct to consumers.

2. That "many, many more municipal enterprises" in other parts of New York State may be created if power interests "continue to demand unconscionable rates."

The short, vehement "fusionist" who beat Tammany remained here today to confer with Secretary Morgenthau, relief administrator Hopkins and others. After talking yesterday with President Roosevelt and Secretary Ickes, he was exuberant over the outlook in

HIGHWAY PROJECTS PLANNED TO RELIEVE STATE UNEMPLOYED

AUSTIN, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The Texas highway commission today completed a section of a federal highway construction program to relieve unemployment and made plans to receive bids on another group of projects.

Bids on road work totaling $1,315,667 were tabulated by the commission yesterday. Approval was given five additional projects, estimated to cost $515,000 on which bids will be received December 31.

The commission scheduled a meeting early in January to select jobs to be included in the regular federal aid allotment for 1935. The current work is being carried out with emergency federal grants.

Commissioner W. R. Ely forecast a lean year for state highway construction in 1935. Only about $1,500,000 will be available for work on roads that are not on the federal aid system, he said. The state will be required to match the $7,500,000 federal aid and provide for maintenance, leaving limited funds for state projects.

Jobs advertised for letting December 31 were in Upshur, Franklin, Jim Wells, Kleberg, Reeves and Culbertson counties.

Huge Airplane Missing on Hop Across Desert

SAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A huge Dutch airplane "Unlabeled" bound from Amsterdam to Batavia, Java, in an attempt to establish a new record for the flight, was unreported here today for 16 hours.

Considerable concern was felt for its safety as a terrific thunderstorm had been reported over the Arabian desert last night. Dispatches from Baghdad said a Dutch airplane had been ordered out to search for the Dutch ship. Officials of the KLM Airlines in London, said, however, "there is no anxiety felt for the safety of the plane."

The big ship, nicknamed the "flying hotel" at the time it won the England to Melbourne air derby, took off from here last night after a brief stop for refueling.

It had on board two pilots, a wireless operator, mechanic and three passengers.

K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll who piloted the plane in the air derby, were not making the flight.

Influence Of "Big Business" Seen In Santa's 1934 Streamlined Pack

Santa Claus this year borrows lots of ideas for his toy pack from big business and the "new deal." Above is shown one of the new doll houses with luxurious furnishings; many of them are built on the add-a-room principle advocated in the government's home modernization program. Below is seen the effects of streamlining on youngsters' vehicles.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—What Santa Claus pack will contain this year is a Tom Thumb edition of big business.

From President Roosevelt to railroad kings Saint Nick has borrowed his new ideas from big time affairs and, when the contents of his capacious sack rolls out Christmas morning, the youngsters will be knee-deep in miniature skyscrapers and streamline trains.

It's All Streamlined
Santa has streamlined his entire pack—velocipedes, casters, scooters, airplanes, automobiles and sleds. Midget models copied from the newest design in speed record-breaking trains tear around electrified tracks. Baby walkers have streamlined bumpers and new doll carriages look like automobile bodies.

Electricity crackles from the whole lot. Red and green lights gleam from streamlined handle bars, doll houses have electric door bells, and tiny electric stoves and irons are ready for Miss 10-year-old's stocking.

Besides these there is an electric

gested that the number in Texas might be increased.

Westbrook, like Allred, called attention to the opportunities Texas has under the relief setup but said, "we cannot map out a program in advance until we see what congress will do."

questionnaire which works with a series of pictures, plugs and wires to answer any query from "Who was President 20 years ago?" to "Why is your nose in the center of your face?" (The toy folk say the grownups around the place have virtually worn display sets out.)

Add-A-Room Houses

President Roosevelt's plea for home modernization and building has evidently given Santa a thought, for he has slipped into his pack add-a-room doll houses, bungalows, garages and farm sets. There are boxes of gay colored steel strips to build skyscrapers, ditch diggers, derricks and cement mixers and bright wooden blocks to fashion libraries, stores and houses.

Even the dolls have a dash and chic which seem to hint better times. Their figures are plumper, their curls arranged into wind-swept bobs and bequeathed coiffures and their wardrobes, complete with outfits for dancing, swimming, skiing or skating, rival that of a lady of fashion.

Luxurious Furniture, Too

Those same dolls have most luxurious furniture. Tiny overstuffed divans and chairs, magazine racks, radio cabinets, cedar chests and twin beds are all ready for their houses.

And when it comes to amusing toys to while away a stray half hour there are all the tricks which have made Santa Claus' pack a joy to children for centuries. Dancing dolls, musical tops, Humpty Dumpty on sticks and merry-go-rounds whirl in new colors and ways.

Woman Plunges to Death from Roof

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Bennett Danahy, 39, former musical comedy star, plunged to her death from the roof of a six story apartment building here today.

Her husband, James Danahy, expressed belief she had gone to the roof for fresh air and that the fall was accidental. Danahy said his wife had been suffering from a nervous disorder.

Seven Injured When Automobile Hits Cow

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Seven persons were injured, two of them so critically they may die, when their car hit a cow near Holiday last night.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Dilars H. Davis; Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Watts and their daughter, Lila Lee, 4; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Gholson, all of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Watts were not expected to recover.

Winter Wheat And Rye Acreage Have Been Increased

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Winter wheat acreage sown this fall was announced today by the department of agriculture as 44,306,000 acres, or 105.9 per cent of that sown a year ago.

The acreage sown to rye was 5,697,000 acres, or 113.3 per cent of a year ago.

No estimates of probable production were given.

Winter wheat was harvested last year from 32,945,000 acres and production was 405,034,000 bushels. Two years ago the harvested acreage was 28,485,000 and production 350,792,000 bushels.

Harvested rye acreage last year was 1,837,000 and production 16,040,000 bushels. Two years ago harvested acreage was 2,349,000 and production 21,150,000 bushels. Condition of winter wheat on December 11 was reported as 77.8 per cent of normal, compared with 74.3 per cent a year ago and 82.4 per cent of the 10-year average 1923-32.

RECOVERY PLANS

90 business leaders, expected to be brought here today or tomorrow by C. B. Ames and George Mead, several new dealers on Capitol Hill took shots at the recovery plan. Many, including high republicans, withheld comment for the time.

Many governors, noting the business men's suggestion that the relief burden should be returned to the states, said the time for that was not yet arrived. Some assailed the proposal. For instance, Governor Bryan of Nebraska called it "unfair and unpatriotic."

The capital noted with interest that the White Sulphur Springs conference decided on a continuing organization, composed of such prominent men as John J. Raskob, Owen D. Young, heads of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Manufacturers Association, to further its principles.

Discussion of Principles
There also was wide discussion of the principles, which included:

1. NRA should be continued on an emergency basis for a year, with the continuance of new codes conditioned on voluntary action by the industries. Every code should contain hours and wage provisions, ban child labor and "safeguard both labor and employer by giving to labor the right to deal with employers either individually or collectively."

2. The government should give evidence of "determined effort to balance the budget" at the earliest possible date "primarily by limiting spending rather than through new taxes."

3. Definite action should be taken "as soon as possible" to fix the value and gold content of the dollar.

4. There should be no government competition with industry in work relief because "government competition dries up the source of its support."

5. "The creation of public works to provide relief invites waste and definitely defers a balanced budget."

6. Arbitrary "determination and limitation of hours and wages as proposed in such measures as 20-hour bills" are harmful. The government should not try to control "local relationships between employees and employers."

7. The control of credit should be independent "of governmental

What Every Woman Knows at Palace Sunday

Lovers of Sir James Barrie's whimsical romance, "What Every Woman Knows," who have been spectators at the stage play during the past decade, are to receive a new thrill with the picture version to be shown Sunday on the Palace screen starring Helen Hayes. Every facility of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios was concentrated in close attention to detail in both human and pictorial values under the personal supervision of Irving Thalberg, the producer. Months of careful testing before actual filming began resulted in one of the most notable casts of the year. Brian Aherne, English stage star, who appeared recently in "The Fountain," was chosen as John Shand, the leading man; a most unusual departure in screen roles was attempted by Madge Evans, who changed from recent unsophisticated portrayals to do Lady Sybil, English "siren"; Lucille Watson, New York stage heart-breaker of a decade ago, who recently scored a sensational comeback in "No More Ladies" on the Broadway stage, makes her talking picture debut as a designing Countess.

domination and political influence."

8. The securities act should be modified.

9. Arbitrary curbs on agricultural products "should be guarded against and prevented."

Governor-elect Allred of Texas, in commenting on the relief suggestion said, "I don't think the state governments would be able to handle relief as efficiently as the government at this time. It would be fine if they could."

COLORADO CONVICTS GIVEN LIBERTY FOR AIDING RESEARCH

MEN WHO TESTED TUBERCULOSIS SERUMS ARE LIBERATED THURSDAY

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

Associated Press Staff Writer.

CANON CITY, Colo., Dec. 20.—(AP)—The threat of life outside prison walls was picked up again today by two life term convicts who risked death but won liberty by volunteering their bodies as the show windows in which doctors witnessed a battle of tuberculosis bacilli.

Carl Erickson, 68, of Denver who served 19 years for slaying his wife, went back into the world a bit belligerently. Mike Schmidt, 63, who paid with 13 years of imprisonment for assault on his daughter, wept. He was sentenced from Sterling.

"I've got a mining proposition ahead of me and I'll get along if they just let me alone," muttered Erickson.

"There's not a friend left to me any place, but that doesn't matter much," Schmidt said. "I don't know just what I'll do."

He added that he intended to go to Denver and look for a job. He worked on a railroad before he went to the penitentiary.

The two convicts were brought from their cells today by Warden Roy Best and told the time had come for prison gates to open for them.

"The governor told you if you would permit the doctors to test out their tuberculosis serum upon you, that you would be liberated," the warden said. "You have carried out your end of the bargain and now the governor is carrying out his."

THE STORY OF 1934 :: 2.—Labor Steps Into The Limelight; Relief Remains A Major Problem

This is the second of a series of 12 daily articles
By JOSEPH L. MILLER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(P)—President Roosevelt still faces a tremendous job in his attempt to rehabilitate the nation's business and industrial machinery.

As 1934 comes to a close, government figures show industrial employment and payrolls are a great deal higher than they were when the President took office. Similar figures, as well as reports on dividends show business generally is in a healthier condition.

But, more than 17,000,000 persons still are dependent on relief for at least part of their food, clothing and shelter. The American Federation of Labor estimated that at the start of winter there were 16,671,000 unemployed workers, 500,000 more than a year before.

Future of NRA—What about NRA and relief? These closely related problems are two of the principal new year's worries at the administration's doorstep.

The recovery act expires on Jan. 1, 1935. What will replace it? What has been good and what bad about this recovery partnership among business, labor and government? Can NRA be expected to ease the government's relief burden that totalled more than one-quarter billion dollars in 1934? Is the present relief system good? How far can work relief be applied direct relief?

Gen. Jo's Departure—There was much tinkering with NRA during the past year. That tinkering, however, largely affected administration. The hundreds of codes operated throughout the year essentially as framed.

Hugh S. Johnson's departure, after a bitter battle over the issue of whether a private business administration, the hundreds of codes operated throughout the year essentially as framed.

The stocky, outspoken former cavalry general who was NRA in its early stages, was replaced by an administrative board headed by S. Clay Williams, tobacco executive.

With a few exceptions, labor's fight to shorten industry's working hours by code revision failed. The relief administration, headed by Henry L. Hopkins, did a gigantic job of "ringing" for the needy during the year.

Figures toward the close of the year showed 4,200,000 families and 8,500,000 single persons on relief rolls.

Change in A. F. of L. Policy—About 1,800,000 are on work relief. As fast as states and municipalities help with materials and supplies, others are being transferred from direct to work relief rolls.

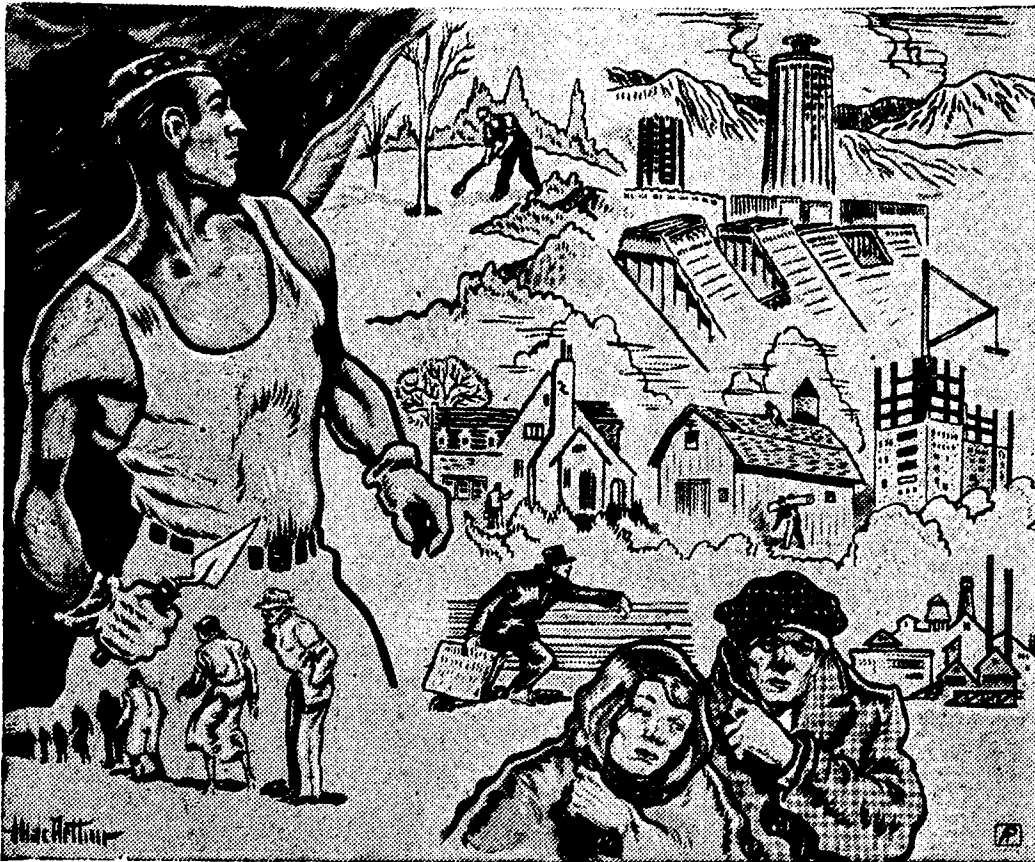

A move toward a new relief method of organizing labor, and the labor relations board's opinions on labor's rights, were the high spots of 1934 for organized workmen.

After years of fostering the development of trade unionism, the American Federation of Labor in September approved the organization of workmen in mass production industries by industry rather than by trade.

The impetus the recovery act's collective bargaining guarantee gave unionism brought the change in A. F. of L. policy.

Newly inspired to bring all American labor into its ranks, the federation looked to industrial unionization of the big mass production industries for a start. Autos, steel and aluminum were among the first.

Chief among the labor board's important decisions was the "majority rule" order. The board found that congress, when it guaranteed collective bargaining rights, meant to foster collective bargaining. To make that bargain-

The problems of labor and relief have bulked large during the current year. Organized labor made new drives for recognition, with the government stepping in as mediator in numerous strikes and threatened strikes. Relief roles have remained large although industrial employment is reported higher than in March, 1933. Through public works programs, reforestation projects, campaigns for home building and renovation and other measures, the government sought to give work and speed recovery.

ing successful, the board reasoned, an employer should deal with the representative of all his employees. The representative chosen by the majority of a unit of employees, it continued, should speak for all the employees.

This ruling was bitterly contested, and at the end of the year was heading toward the supreme court for a final decision.

The federal government played an increasingly important part in the dealings of employees with their employers.

After the President asked for

of the year, treasury department figures show. Deposits in banks affiliated with the federal deposit insurance corporation mounted $1,250,000 from June to October.

Loans Guaranteed—Efforts to prime a pump, which would pour millions of dollars of private capital into building projects, and thus stimulate the lagging heavy goods industries, were continued throughout the year.

One move toward that end was congress' guarantee of loans made by private financial institutions for rebuilding and renovating homes. Later the federal housing administrator attempted to bring private capital to the aid of low-cost housing projects to clear slum districts and give low-income workers decent living quarters.

Private investment in such projects, the administration hoped, eventually would replace public loans. The "WPA, however, continued to pour millions into construction, and a notable increase in building permits indicated the results.

The public works administration also continued its policy of lending for park projects, local sewer, road and water supply construction, and the like.

TEXAS OIL WELLS BOOST PRODUCTION TUESDAY MORNING

INCREASED FEDERAL ALLOWABLE IS VIRTUALLY ABSORBED AT ONCE

AUSTIN, Dec. 18.—(P)—Texas oil wells legally produced at a rate of 1,001,057 barrels today, 60,000 barrels more than the limit for early December. It was the first time in many months legal production exceeded 1,000,000 barrels.

State proration schedules were boosted effective at 7 a. m. today by the Texas railroad commission to absorb all but 4,743 barrels of an increase of 65,500 barrels in the federal allocation granted for the remainder of December and January.

As new schedules were made effective until Feb. 1, the commission cancelled a statewide hearing set for December 22.

A check of federal bureau of mines estimates indicated a market demand for 1,008,600 barrels instead of 941,300 barrels at forecast December 1. State schedules were held below the federal limit to absorb gains in East Texas and production in new fields.

All areas in 14 years, under except West Central Texas, which remained at 31,000 barrels, and government wells in Southwest Texas, which was cut 410 barrels to 18,645.

West Texas received the largest gain, 18,385 barrels to 148,102;

Gulf coast next 15,153 to 177,145 and East Texas 1,412 to an estimated 419,000. Increases and new schedules for other districts: Panhandle 2,000 to 58,800; North Texas 2,000 to 58,800; East Central Texas 5,550 to 52,102 and Southwest Texas 2 to 37,122.

The East Texas proration basis was increased from 3.45 to 3.6 per cent of the hourly potential for a daily limit. All of the East Central district increase was allotted the Van field.

TOUHY IS SOUGHT BY FEDERAL AGENTS FOR SEVERAL CRIMES

TERRIBLE TOMMY IS NOW MOST WIDELY HUNTED CRIMINAL IN AMERICA

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(P)—Chief Postoffice Inspector Walter Johnson denied today that questioning of Joseph Burns, captured Dillinger gangster, had disclosed an alliance between the remnants of the Dillinger gang and the forces of Tommy Touhy, survivor of the once powerful kidnaping band.

Despite assertions by John J. Ryan, deputy chief inspector of Brooklyn, that neither Burns nor Touhy were members of the gang which looted an armored truck of $427,000 there last August, Inspector Johnson said he was convinced Burns had a part in the sensational holdup.

He was equally satisfied, he said, that Touhy did not have any part in the Brooklyn robbery.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(P)—Report that investigators had uncovered new secrets of the underworld today sent manhunters on a new public enemy drive which made "Terrible Tommy" Touhy the most widely hunted man in America.

Backtracking the trail of the late John Dillinger and his henchmen, the investigators disclosed that they were hunting Touhy as a suspect in the $427,000 Brooklyn armored car robbery of last August and that they believe he is now leader of the combined forces of the remnants of the Dillinger and Touhy gangs.

At the same time the investigators disclosed that they had information that it was Touhy and not Dillinger who engineered the Michigan City, Ind., state prison break that unleashed the Dillinger mobsters on the Middle West in September of 1933.

The information that Touhy was behind the prison break came, the investigators said from a confession of a civil employee of the Michigan City prison, which is now in the possession of J. Edward Barce, deputy attorney general of Indiana. Barce is reported to have helped bring about the arrest of Joseph Burns.

Touhy, the investigators said, had frequently visited Burns at the apartment where Burns was arrested last Sunday. He is a brother of Roger Touhy who with three henchmen is serving a 99-year sentence in the Illinois state prison at Joliet for kidnaping John Factor, of Chicago, the international speculator.

Meanwhile Burns, who was among the ten who fled the Indiana state prison, was questioned in an attempt to link him with a dozen or more crimes, in addition to the Brooklyn robbery. One rumor connected him with the recent theft of $63,000 in money and jewelry from the Indiana Dunes cottage of Thomas Molay, Chicago head of the Moving Picture Operators' Union.

FORMER METHODIST PASTOR CONVICTED OF FORGERY CHARGE

CASE GREW OUT DIVORCE TRIAL IN WHICH HE DENIED EVER BEING MARRIED

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 18.—(P)—W. D. Welburn, Jr., former Methodist pastor, was sentenced to seven years imprisonment today by a jury which convicted him of perjury at his divorce trial in which he denied ever having been married.

In the divorce suit last June, Welburn claimed to have never been married to Wineta Long Welburn. He contended the marriage papers had been forged and denied Mrs. Welburn's claims that he was the father of her son. She was granted a divorce.

The perjury case was an outgrowth of the statements he made in the divorce trial. The defense described the young preacher as "the victim of the most diabolical conspiracy ever perpetrated in Bexar county."

Story's attorneys attacked his statements and the contention that Welburn's signature had been forged to the marriage documents. W. L. Schlesinger, defense attorney, told the jury that Welburn was a victim of circumstances.

Welburn was a student at Kent Wesleyan College, the Presbyterian theological seminary of Kentucky and Emory College at Atlanta, Ga. He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Atlanta institution.

DR. TATE MILLER BE GUEST SPEAKER MEDICAL BANQUET

Arrangements were reported complete Wednesday by Dr. J. Wilson David for the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Navarro County Medical Society at the Navarro Hotel Friday evening at 7:15. Dr. W. W. Carter will be the toastmaster, and Dr. Tate Miller of Dallas will be the guest speaker.

The invocation will be pronounced by Dr. J. A. Jones and toasts will be presented by Festus A. Pierce, Dr. Hubert Love, Dr. W. K. Logsdon, Dr. Tate Miller and others. At the conclusion of the program an "old-fashioned"

SENATE MUNITIONS PROBES TAKE ISSUE WITH PLAN OF ARMY

WAR DEPARTMENT WOULD LIMIT PROFITS AND HAVE PRESS CENSORSHIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(P)—Senate investigators of munitions took issue today with the army's idea that a long-secret war mobilization plan should not be sent to congress until war actually comes.

The committee turned to a more minute scrutiny of the plans, which include a six per cent limit on supplies profits and a "voluntary censorship" of the press in case of war—after Senator Clark (D-O.) had suggested they should be sent to congress in peacetime for leisurely debate.

Under the army plan, he protested, the eight bills embodying the scheme to mobilize the nation's resources would be rushed to congress to "pass under whip and spur" without consideration.

War department witnesses replied that the war policies commission believed a certain legislation might be held unconstitutional in peacetime but legal in a war emergency.

Clark also contended on the "censorship" plan to determine what degree of control it contemplated. The plan calls for an administrator of public relations who would mobilize "all existing mediums of publicity so that they may be employed to the best possible advantage."

Card of Thanks.

We wish to take this method of expressing our thanks to our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father, W. L. French. We especially thank Dr. Russell for his kindness and faithful service shown to us during the illness and death of our dear father. We also thank those for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. W. L. French and Joe French, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Howell and Children; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ellis and Children; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith and Mrs. E. F. French and Children.

ed Christmas tree will be presented and gifts distributed. Music will be furnished for the banquet by "Hot Shot's Red Hot Syncopators," the program chairman announced.

Notices of the meeting have been mailed out to all members and those desiring reservations are requested to notify Dr. David or Dr. W. T. Shell, Jr., at once.

Turkeys! Turkeys!

We cannot tell what southern live market will be but will be buying some next week for nearby markets, live hens. Will likely load car next week for New Year's market and if want to sell any prefer to have them then, as most turkeys will be sold and out of way.

NOTICE

The policy of the Corsicana Daily Sun and Semi-Weekly Morning Light of publishing obituary sketches without cost will be discontinued immediately. In the future all such matter will be published at regular advertising rates. Practically every paper in the state has charged for such notices for a number of years and the Sun and Light are among the last to adopt such a policy.

Economic conditions, shorter working hours in the mechanical department and increased costs of production cause the publishers to take this step.

THE STORY OF 1934

3.—Year Finds Europe Jittery Over Prospect Of New War

This is the third in a daily series of 12 articles

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Many nations, their nerves still jumpy from the shell-shock of the great war, stamped during the past year from fields of quasi-peace back towards the battle trenches which were abandoned with so much rejoicing and hope in 1918.

This was outstanding development abroad in 1934.

Grim fear impelled countries after country to disregard the terrible ravages of the protracted economic depression and press on a road of rearmament. Europe was a scene of a retrained budget with a huge sum in a feverish rush for military preparedness. Europe was a scene of a retrained budget with a huge sum in a feverish rush for military preparedness.

In Europe the panic was caused largely by the insistence of numerous countries that Germany was preparing for conquest and already had re-armed to a point where she was a menace to her neighbors—this despite protestations from Wilhelmstrasse. Across the Continent and over the Channel into Britain, fell the terrifying shadow of the ex-Kaiser's old war machine, said by military experts to have been the most powerful ever constructed by a single nation.

A Close-up View

The perpetually seething Balkan pot also gave signs of boiling over as the year neared its end. In the Orient Japan was riding the crest of a mountain wave of intense nationalism which was causing fear in China, and grave concern in other countries, notably England and the United States.

Here is a closer view of the picture which confronted the world as Christmas arrived with its messages of "peace, good will toward men."

England was bent on possessing a defensive air armada which would be second to none. She was being lashed to action by such powerful personalities as the late Winston Churchill, statesman, soldier, naval expert, and one of the great orators of his time. He recently uttered in telling phrases the grave warning that Britain was in "mortal danger" from an air attack from Germany, and declared that the latter was "re-arming with the utmost speed."

Another drastic declaration came from Stanley Baldwin, former British prime minister and still leader of the dominant Conservative party. His pronouncement was the more striking because he is an exponent of peace and bears every likeness of the old-world country gentleman who loves the quiet of his fireside. His friends like to refer to him as Farmer Baldwin, because of his penchant for pigs and primroses, and other things rural.

Speaking in the House of Commons in advocacy of a stronger air force Baldwin, as vice-premier in the absence of Ramsey MacDonald, startled the world with that historic declaration which in substance was:

"England's frontier is now the Rhine."

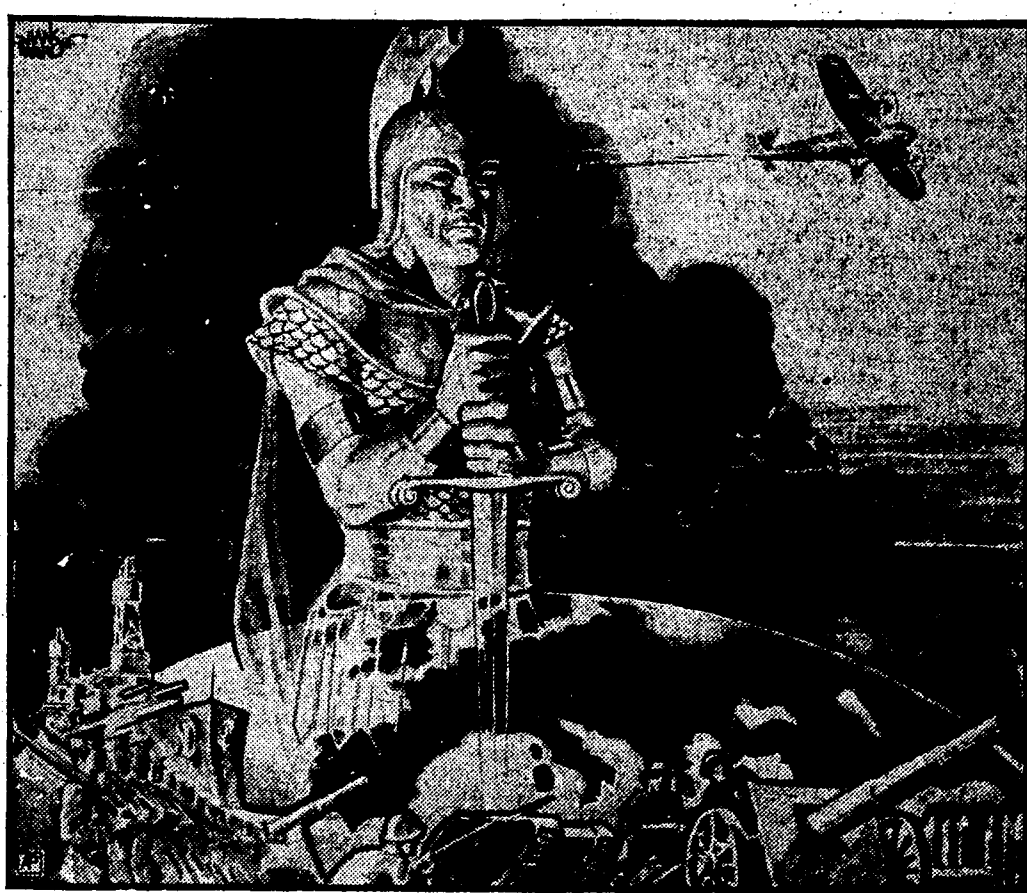

By that he meant that Britain no longer could confine her defenses to the coastline of her old-garden country. His explanation lay in an expression of the belief that Germany might greatly enlarge her armaments in the air.

France Arms to Hilt

Almost at the same time France, with an outcry against the German menace, provided for one of the greatest military budgets in her history. Much of this was to be devoted to her air fleet.

Tiny but valiant Belgium was busy devising a supposedly impregnable line of steel and concrete fortifications along the German border. She was impelled by memories of the outbreak of the world war when the juggernaut of imperial Germany crashed its way across her without warning.

Germany was a admitted swarming with trained soldiers. She was demanding that the

Again the war lord looms over worried Europe, and his shadow falls over much of the world. During the present year the Continent has armed feverishly, with more than one war scare adding its toll to jangled nerves. Other areas, notably Japan and Soviet, have experienced similar alarms.

Verdun treaty be overridden

and that she be granted equal rights with other nations as regards war equipment. Her neighbors, who were trying to make her out the Big Bad Wolf of Europe despite her claims of desiring peace, asserted that she was building powerful bombing planes, and that she was equipping factories for the quick manufacture of war munitions, and that she had devised and was storing up poison gases more terrible than anything of which the world had yet dreamed.

Mussolini not only was looking carefully to his military and naval machines, but started an intensive drive to make his country try military minded. He decreed that even infants should be tutored to this end.

Repercussions of Marcellus Yugoslavia and Hungary were at grievous loggerheads. Hungary was being charged with complicity in the October assassination of King Alexander. Yugoslavia's soldier-monarch, and thousands of Hungarian subjects were being expelled from Yugoslavia. Italy was extending sympathy to Hungary.

Yugoslavia and Italy were at swords' points, having missed carefully to his military and naval machines, but started an

in the Austrian Nazi revolt of July. Europe herself never knew exactly how close to armed conflict she was at that time.

Mussolini, bent on preventing the revolt from unseating the Austrian government, rushed troops to the border, prepared to throw them across if necessary. Yugoslavia, fearful of a threat to her security from the north, likewise hurried an army to the Austrian border, ready to fight if Italy crossed the Austrian line.

Submarines at Vladivostok Russia, with her vast standing army and powerful new air equipment, declared for peace, but made it clear that she felt she could take care of herself. Meanwhile it was officially admitted that France and Russia were playing about with the idea of an alliance under which Russia would come to France's aid if the latter were attacked by Germany. In the troubled Far East Russia was said to have a heavy concentration of airplanes and submarines at Vladivostok, across the way from Japan.

Most of the small countries of Europe were doing their busy best to prepare for eventualities.

Japan had created a major sensation by announcing that she was abrogating the Washington treaty, whereby her naval strength was limited to three-fifths of that of each of the other great naval powers—America and England. Nippon was demanding the right to equality, thereby causing anxiety in both Washington and London. Delegates of all three countries spent uncomfortable weeks in London trying to iron out the differences. The possibility of a costly race for naval supremacy was freely predicted.

While this was going on, reports were seeping into the ears of the League of Nations in Geneva that in the Pacific Japan was fortifying former German islands which had been entrusted to her after the war. The Japanese denied this. Japan was establishing commercial airlines to the islands. Washington noted that, by coincidence, these dots in the ocean might prove a barrier to the Philippines, if they were held by an enemy.

Statesmen See No War China, all but bankrupt and torn by internal conflict, was trying to maintain a fighting force and create an air fleet, partly to take care of disorders at home, and partly to defend her northeastern seacoast, which she claimed had been threatened by Japan since the latter carved the state of Manchukuo from Chinese territory.

Even the United States in her isolation was looking to her defensive weapons, and her air fleet was receiving special attention. In South America Paraguay and Bolivia continued their bloody warfare in the inhospitable, fever infested jungles of the Chaco Boreal.

Despite all this, however, great statesmen insisted that while the dangers were apparent, there was no probability of a major conflict in the near future, at least.

CLAIM RESOLUTION AOPTED AGAINST RE-HIRING ELLIS

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 19.—(P)—C. N. Shaver, president of the Texas State Teachers' Association, said yesterday that the report he received from an executive committee meeting in Fort Worth last Saturday showed that a resolution was drafted against R. T. Ellis, present secretary-treasurer of the association, being re-employed in the same capacity at the expiration of the present term, Dec. 31, 1934.

The committee of five appointed by the chairman of the executive committee resolved that Ellis be re-employed by the Texas State Teachers' Association in a different capacity—probably as advertising manager of the "Outlook" Shaver said.

B. E. Cobb, superintendent of Waco public schools, was drafted to take Ellis' place but has not yet indicated whether he will accept according to the report Shaver received.

The committee of five also was instructed to study the personnel of the organization but no resolution in this connection were passed.

The report was taken down in longhand and transcribed at Longview before being forwarded to Shaver here by H. L. Foster.

Shaver said no other business was transacted at the executive meeting.

Home Economics Class Emhouse Enjoy Party

The home economics classes of Emhouse High school entertained Monday night with a Christmas party honoring their mothers in the home economics department.

A short program and games made up the evening's entertainment, after which a salad course was served from the dining room. The table was beautifully decorated by a miniature Christmas tree, carrying out the season's colors. The following mothers were present: Misses E. B. Collins, DeLafosse, L. E. Hill, C. Maggard, C. D. Owen, D. O. Richards, W. B. Sparkman, J. N. Tinkle, W. Turner, G. W. Watkins, O. F. Wetzel and R. Wilcox.

Arrangements for the party were in charge of Faye Sparkman, president of the home economics club, and a special committee composed of Collins, Collins, Ada Sue DeLafosse and Frances Williams. Those assisting were members of the classes and their sponsor, Miss Billie Williamson.

Little Child Was Painfully Injured When Hit by Auto

Carl Dean Haley, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Haley who reside at the fire station on West Thirtieth avenue, received numerous bruises and other injuries shortly before 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when he was knocked down by an automobile when he is reported to have stepped from behind another car.

The child was rushed to the Corsicana Hospital and Clinic for treatment. His injuries are not thought to be serious.

AAA BENEFITS AND COSTS

As of November 1, processing taxes exceeded the total cost of AAA disbursements for all agricultural purposes. The taxes amounted to $555,000,000 and the disbursements to $522,000-000.

To consumers, figures as large as those announced from Washington can scarcely be dry. They are, perhaps, particularly interesting when AAA expenditures are presented by states. The heaviest general administrative expenses have been incurred in the District of Columbia, of course. There they amount to $13,795,397. But one need not find that sum particularly arresting in the light of the purpose for which the expenditures have been made, namely, the relief of agriculture. The same thing may be said of the total of expenditures for aid to the various farm groups—cotton, grain, tobacco and livestock.

Expenditures for administration in states, however,
are something else again.
Many readers will be pu-zled not end by the contrast between the administration
cost of $1,848,412 for disbursing $16,830,371 in Alabama and the administration cost of $223,256 for disbursing $13,030,483 in Indiana.

Administration costs will vary in different states, of course. But it does not seem possible to explain the gap between Alabama and Indiana costs in that manner.
The same thing seems true
of Mississippi's administration cost of more than $1-700,000 for disbursing some sixteen millions whereas Missouri disbursed some

NEW BUSINESS STRUC-TURE

"In this twenty months of recovery and reconstruction," said Donald R. Richbarg in a recent speech at Atlanta, "the foundations
have been laid for a political-economic system wherein private enterprise can compete for individual profit
and at the same time cooperate to maintain a proper balance between the interests of agriculture,
trade, industry, management, labor and consumer."

If the private managers of our financial and business institutions are ready and willing to build a new industrial structure upon these foundations, now is their opportunity.

Some critics will regard
all this as a pretty large assumption. But if he is right as to the government's purpose and accomplishment, and if business men in general agree to play the game and go along with the government, it becomes somewhat clearer where we go from here.

The obvious idea is the salvation of private capitalism and democracy through a larger degree of public control and a more social distribution of the rewards
than has prevailed in the past. If the plan works, business men would not expect such large profits as they have made during prosperous times in the past. But they might reasonably expect compensation in greater stability and more uniform profits.

Expansion of the waistline, says a health article,
is to be avoided at all costs.
Also the expansion of the band.

CHRISTMAS AT HOME
What for Christmas shall we do?
Shall we search for pleasure new Shall we try the day to fill
With some strange, exquisite thrill?
No, answer, rather stay
Round the hearth this Christmas Day.

Let us stretch the table out;
Seat the family round about,
Young and old and with a din
Bring the Christmas pudding in.
Let us try once more to know
All the joys of long ago.

Let us set the day apart
To be gay and blithe of heart.
Let the home with laughter shake
Once again for old time's sake.
Let's sit every eye aglow
With a hough of mistletoe.

mUnmbpWdwucmfw cmf cm
Off at Christmas you recall
We were happiest of all.
All together then were we,
One united family,
And what merriment we had Back with mother and with dad!

Let us have a Christmas tree
Like the one that used to be
And a Santa Claus to call Gifts for loved ones, one and all.
In the old-time tender way
Let us keep next Christmas Day.

MODERN YOUNG PEOPLE

Parents throughout the nation must have been startled by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's radio announcement that a study of conditions among high school students would reveal "some appalling situations among our young people" and "young people are doing things today as a matter of course, which 20 years ago would have been out of the question for any nice boy or girl to do."

Those same parents will do well to consider that the doings of young people which become a "matter of course" can be accounted for by the bringing up that parents give their children and by the conditions which grown people tolerate.

It is a little embarrassing
to confess that the "nice boys and girls" who behaved themselves 20 years ago must have had nice parents who set them good examples, and provided surroundings and influences which were favorable to
"nice" conduct.

Mrs. Roosevelt wisely suggests some wholesome exercises which "organizations interested in young people" may provide to save "from early attendance at dance halls and beer parlors."

The department of agriculture is having no luck
at growing grass around its new building in Washington. Surely there must be a 10-cent booklet that covers this.

HITCH-HIKING DANGEROUS

Transcontinental hitchhiking is soon to come to an end. Public opinion is concluding that the practice is too dangerous to youth, and that conclusion
is finding expression in law.

Virginia, New Jersey, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other states have legislated to forbid or to regulate the soliciting of rides, and penalties vary from small fines to terms of imprisonment.

Those who remember the good old horse-and-wagon
days when only the "meanest man in the neighborhood" would refuse a wayfarer a ride, may feel a pang of regret at trends of our modern "civilization."

Some even may suggest that if the law were a little more efficient in checking criminals it would not be necessary to use law to check the neighborly and humane impulse.

Be that as it may, the fact remains that hitchhiking has proved a menace
both to those who catch rides and to those who extend the courtesy.

SOUND BANKS.

Bank closings so far this year stand at 57, the lowest total for 14 years years.
Only seven of these were members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The others were state banks with uninsured deposits.

In the year ended June 30, 1932, there were 2430
bank failures. The contrast is a testimonial to the present soundness of the banking system of the nation.

Insurance of small accounts has created confidence in the banks. Recent

TAXES AND PROSPERITY

One section of the report of the commission of inquiry headed by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, is of particular interest because it emphasizes an argument that has frequently been presented.

"We believe," says this section, "that there is only a minor relationship between the official prices of gold and silver and the general price level, and that the correspondence between commodity prices and the official prices of these metals is substantial only for those commodities which move importantly in international trade."

That has been made evident by the course of most prices since the gold dollar was devalued. As a means of raising commodity prices commensurate to the increased price of gold, devaluation has been to a large extent a failure. It is in other respects that devaluation has produced benefits.

"The government," continues the report, "may enlarge purchasing power through maintaining for a time a large federal deficit, which may be created by reducing taxes as well as by increasing expenditures. Such a deficit for emergency purpose is need not threaten our financial structure if accompanied by sound policies for increasing production and employment."

A balanced budget we must have sooner or later;
but if the budget is balanced too soon, we shall pay far more heavily than we shall have to pay if we restore production and employment first.

The time to increase taxes is not in a period of depression, but in a period of prosperity; and then the rate scarcely need be increased, because they are producing heavily.

"There are attractive possibilities," says the commission, "in the reduction of the many federal excise taxes, for this would operate both to augment private purchasing power and to lower cost for the industries concerned."

Encourage industry, and employment will follow.
Tax it to death, and there will be stagnation.

That ought to be self-evident. The royal road to recovery lies in production,
employment and increased consumption. Therefore reduce the burden on production. The flow of increased taxes will follow when the nation is better able to pay them.

GOOD WORK BY LEAGUE

The League of Nations, whose prestige lately was at a low ebb, seems to be coming back. Its handling of the critical feud between Yugoslavia and Hungary, which might have led to another big war, is possibly the most effective service to civilization it has yet rendered.

There was diplomacy,
and also punch, in its procedure. It "deplored" the assassination of King Alexander at Marseille. It applied the principle of international law regarding terrorist activities within one state against another state.
At Yugoslavia's request, it asked the Hungarian government to punish any Hungarian authorities who should be found to have had a guilty connection with the assassination. And Hungary consented.

Here is a good example of the sort of service which the League is specially capable of rendering. Stepping in between two hostile governments, it acts as a disinterested power, to which the quarreling parties may make concessions that they would not make to each other. Observers point out that in the present case Yugoslavia obtains satisfaction while Hungary's honor remains intact—an ideal adjustment.

So Europe breathes easier.
The future would be brighter, and the League would rise still higher in authority and esteem, if it could woo Germany back to membership. That may not be so difficult as it seemed a few months ago.

We look for the annual reprinting of the "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" editorial, even in some Republican newspapers.

dent. The royal road to recovery lies in production,

duce the burden on production. The flow of increased

"Full Feeling"
After Meals

Here is how Theodor's Black-Draught proved helpful to Mr.
Archie W. Brown, of Fort Green, Fla.: "I have taken Black-Draught
when I have felt dull from over-eating or eating too hurriedly," he writes. "Small doses right after meals rid me of gases and heavy feeling. I am a great believer in Black-Draught."

Theodor's BLACK-DRAUGHT

"CHILDREN LIKE THE SYRUP"

ANCIENT DROUTH

Dr. Jesse Logan Nusbaum
director of the Laboratory of Anthropology in Santa Fe, has been conducting extensive archeological digging around New Mexico
in recent years. In a report to the American Museum of Natural History he tells of pueblo ruins traced back to 1100 A. D.

Much information as to age of these ruins and the weather which prevailed
when they were built is gleaned from a study of charred beams. Scientists have learned to read the rings of the old beams by matching overlapping tree patterns. The same sort of work is going on in the Tennessee Valley, where archeologists collect ancient cabin logs in an effort to reconstruct a few of the prehistoric mysteries of that region.

Dr. Nusbaum tells of a drouth which lasted 23
years, from 1276 to 1299
A. D. That makes the recent drouth—which we hope is now broken—look like a mere interval between showers. During that extended drouth, it appears,
the inhabitants of the Southwest were continually journeying back and forth in search of water.

The only kind of economic depression people of those days could suffer, so far as we know, would be the shortage of food and clothing materials caused by the lack of water. That is plenty, but it could be alleviated by moving to a new place. Modern depressions are more complicated

BREWING COMPANY
INDICTED CHARGE
CODE VIOLATION

ANSEUSER-BUSCH, INC., IS CHARGED FURNISHING BAR
EQUIPMENT TO RETAILERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)— Indictment of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis for alleged violation of the code of fair competition was announced today by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., director of the federal alcohol control administration.

He said the indictment was returned yesterday by a grand jury
in the United States District Court for western Louisiana.
Choate added that the company
was charged with having furnished bar equipment to seventeen retail outlets.

"One of the most important purposes of the brewing code has been to prevent the brewing companies from securing a financial control over the retail outlets," he said.

"In the contracts involved in these proceedings, the recipients of the equipment were forbidden
to use the name for the dispensing of other than Anheuser-Busch beer."

Administration officials described the action as "historic."

Declines to Comment.
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 20.—(AP)— Adolphus Busch, III, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., declined
last night to comment on a federal indictment returned by a Louisiana grand jury against the St. Louis brewery.

The indictment charged violation of the brewers' code through alleged subsidization of retail beer dispensaries.

District Court.
A verdict for $2,025.50 was returned Thursday morning by the jury for E. V. Bigham vs. Powell Salt Water company for damages alleged to have been sustained by property of the plaintiff from salt water from oil properties in the Powell field.

The trial started last week and testimony was completed Monday of this week. The case went to the jury early Wednesday afternoon. The case had been tried several times before.

Notice of a motion for a new trial by attorneys for the Powell Salt Water company was announced by C. W. Taylor, local counsel, and an appeal will be taken to higher courts in the event the motion for a new trial is denied. The plaintiff is represented by Mays and Mays.

The case was tried before Wayne R. Howell, special district judge.

Hawkins Scarborough, regular judge, resumed his duties on the bench after the case was disposed of, relieving Wayne R. Howell, special judge. A special order extending the term of court was scheduled to be entered by Judge Scarborough during the day to hear motions by attorneys for the defendant salt water company.

The regular term of court will close Saturday night and the district court will be in vacation until the January term which will be opened Monday, Jan. 7, 1935. The term for the Bigham case will be extended until January 6, 1935 in the order to be entered Thursday.

The grand jury was still in session Thursday morning. It was expected by courthouse attaches that the jurors would conclude their work during the day and would make their final report.

District Clerk's Office.

TOYS AND FRUIT SENT STATE HOME BY C.I.A. GIRLS

Five large boxes of toys and fruit, three of toys and two of fruit, were received at the State Home Wednesday as a gift from the girls of C. I. A. Included in the boxes were toys of every conceivable nature that will delight the hearts of the younger boys and girls of the institution.

The boxes were opened and the toys placed on display before being distributed to the children in the baby boys and baby girls dormitories.

A number of girls from the State Home have attended C. I. A. during the past few years and no doubt these students were instrumental in securing the gifts for the Home children.

College Official Gets Hung Jury In Embezzlement Case

BROWNWOOD, Dec. 20.—(P)—State prosecutors today laid plans for the third trial of E. B. Gilliam, Sr., former trustee of Daniel Baker College after his second trial on a charge of embezzlement of the college funds ended with a hung jury.

Twenty hours after given the case for deliberations, the jury reported it stood evenly divided—six for conviction and six for acquittal.

Gilliam's first trial ended in a two-year sentence, but an appeal court reversed and remanded the case. He was charged with embezzling $2,300 of the college's special funds.

LOUISIANA DICTATOR ABANDONS PLANS FOR CONTROL TEACHERS

REP. LESTER CALLS LONG
NERO AND SOLONS PUTTY
FACED STOOGES

By ED DESORRY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 18.—(P)—After fiery one-man opposition, Senator Huey P. Long today promised to "back down" on legislation which would give him control of the state's 15,000 school teachers, but a cheerfully submissive house of representatives, passed that measure and 32 others at the rate of one a minute, a new Huey Long legislative record.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 18.—(P)—Senator Huey P. Long today abandoned legislative objectives that would have placed the hiring of 15,000 school teachers under his control, as fiery opposition denunciation of that and other "kingfish" bills was voiced by Representative G. W. Lester, of West Feliciana.

Lester denounced the senator as a "modern Nero" and a "Political Madman" and the legislators "Putty Faced Stooges" for yielding to his dictates.

Embarrassed and grinning on the house speakers' dais, Long made the exhortation in silence. A group of Long administration members tried to challenge Lester, but in a verbal duel with Representative I. W. Sharp, Long's leader stopped other administration members from speaking.

Passed as a bill, the bill was drawn 61 to 28 but with a promise from the administration forces to amend it in the senate to meet Lester's objections.

"We as legislators are called upon to take from the people the rights as guaranteed by the federal and state constitutions," Lester shouted to the house.

"These bulwarks of our democratic government, the courts, the law enforcement offices, and now the schools are to be surrendered to the whims of a political party," he said.

House Begins Passing Bills.
The house began passing the senator's 33 dictatorial bills today at 10:15 a. m.

The first measure, which Representative I. W. Sharp, St. Landry, administration floor leader, said made three amendments to the state liquor tax act to permit a saloon to sell package liquor, remove Louisiana wines from taxation, and forbid re-use of bottles, passed 51 to 0 with no discussion.

The second bill, making it a fraud or conspiracy to forge executive stamps was passed in the same manner 74 to 8.

The third bill, taking away occupational license tax collection from the New Orleans tax collector and placing it under the state supervisor of public accounts was passed in two minutes 56 to 25, the oppositionists mustering a relatively sizeable contrary vote.

CHILD STOLEN BY AUTO THIEF FOUND
ON SQUARE TYLER

HUGE POSSE BEAT EAST
TEXAS SECTOR ALL NIGHT
IN SEARCH

TYLER, Dec. 18.—(P)—Eating peanuts and candy, apparently by his abductor, a young boy named Ray Larson, missing since late yesterday when his father's automobile was stolen from the business district, was found early today and immediately returned to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Larson.

The child, for whom a large posse of citizens and officers, including department of justice agents, had searched over a large area of East Texas, drenched throughout the night by a steady rain, was discovered in the stolen car by John Jones, a salesman at a grocery firm, as he was on his way to work at 6:25 a. m.

Sheriff Earl Price, who conducted the search for the child, immediately notified and sought to learn some clues as to the identity of the abductor by the returning child, but was unable to get from the lad any information. The officer took the child to his parents' farm home, 15 miles north of Tyler, where he said he again would seek to question the boy.

Driven forty miles, the sheriff said the speedometer of the car showed it had been driven about 30 or 40 miles from the time it was stolen at 4:15 p. m. yesterday until found in a parking lot back of the Tyler hotel, near the International and Northern freight depot this morning.

The finding of the child brought to an end a frantic night for the parents, who feared the child, and only in a light pair of overalls and a red overcoat, would contract pneumonia if exposed to the cold weather.

Whoever took my boy can have the car, Larson said, "but I hope the baby is safe. He is a timid I am afraid that he will not tell who he is or where he lives."

Think Work of Amateur.
Sheriff Price said the abduction was "probably the work of an amateur car thief" stealing his father's automobile. He posted a $200 reward for the capture of the abductor.

Frank J. Blake, department of justice special investigator at Dallas, sent his men into the area immediately after the child was reported missing.

Larson said he left the child

COTTON CROP 1934 IS WORTH MUCH MORE THAN TWO YEARS AGO

INTERESTING REPORTS ARE MADE CHAMBER COMMERCE
DIRECTORS WEDNESDAY

Navarro county's 1934 cotton crop including government benefits was worth approximately four million dollars more to producers than the 1932 crop, according to the report of the agricultural committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting of the board of directors held in the State National Bank Wednesday morning.

According to figures compiled by chamber officials, Byron Cheney, chairman of the committee, reported that the 1932 crop was valued at $1,525,000, with some $1,000 bale at a price of 5 cents per pound.

The 1934 crop of 45,000 bales valued at 13 cents a pound, brought an estimated return of $5,850,000. Included was an item of $1,250,000 on 148 option contracts. Other proceeds were secured from livestock and corn-hog program checks.

Under the head of mercantile activities, J. A. Silverberg, reported that the bridge across the Trinity river between Eureka and Palestine was 80 per cent completed and would be finished between January 20 and February 1, and that plans for a bridge across the river at Palestine were being pushed in January.

It was also reported every effort was being made to complete the gap in Highway 22 between Corsicana and the Hill county line.

Other business continued membership in the United States Chamber of Commerce was delayed until a later meeting.

Letters of commendation from landowners for the work done by the chamber on the agricultural programs were read and discussed.

The directors were informed that an application had been made for a civilian conservation corps camp for territory near Corsicana and the petitions were reported pending.

Chamber officials were authorized to name a committee to work with the county engineers to survey for tuberculosis and Bangs disease among cattle in this county. It was reported that a quarantine would be necessary to effect such a measure.

Reporting on better housing campaign progress, I. N. Cert said that inquiries were increasing and some applications for loans were pending, and that there were no factors in Navarro county to finance all needed or desired construction.

Removal of the feed loan office from chamber of commerce quarters to new building on the east side of the postoffice, was reported.

The directors agreed to co-operate with city officials in making every effort to keep the streets of the city as clean as possible.

HUSBAND OF FORMER CORSICANA GIRL IS BURIED IN ALABAMA

DR. J. S. WARD HEAD MOD-ERN LANGUAGE DEPART-MENT ALABAMA COLLEGE

Friends of Mrs. J. S. Ward, formerly Miss Lillian Kiber of this city, will be interested in the following article taken from the Montevallo, Alabama, paper of December 17.

"Funeral services for Dr. J. S. Ward, head of the Modern Language Department at Alabama College, were held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Montevallo Baptist church with Dr. F. B. Pierson in charge, assisted by Rev. R. C. Carleton, pastor of the Methodist church. Burial services were held in the Montevallo cemetery.

"Dr. Ward had been in ill health for several months and had recently returned from John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he went to consult specialists. However, his death came as a complete shock to his family and friends.

"Dr. Ward had been associated with Alabama College for approximately 12 years. Prior to his coming to Montevallo he was a member of the faculty of Howard Payne College, Texas; Mercer College, Georgia; A. and M. College, Texas; Baylor University, Texas; University of Alabama, and Columbia University, New York City.

"At the time of his death he was a member of the board of deacons of the Baptist church and was recognized as one of the most progressive minded and public spirited citizens of Montevallo. He had served as president of the Exchange Club and had taken an active part in its work.

"His passing was a severe shock to the entire community, and the esteem in which he was held was shown by the huge gathering which filled the church and overflowed into the streets.

"Fearing silent tribute, the entire student body of Alabama College formed a line on both sides of the funeral procession as it passed from the home to the church.

"Dr. Ward is survived by his wife, Mrs. J. S. Ward, and four children, Madeline, Belle, Julia, Evelyn, and David.

"Active pallbearers were Dr. O. Carmichael, Dean T. H. Naylor, A. C. Anderson, R. A. Reid, R. L. Frifren, and M. P. Peter. Honorary pallbearers were faculty members of Alabama College and members of the Board of Deacons of the Baptist church."

TOTAL VALUE FARM CROPS THIS YEAR IN EXCESS FOUR BILLION

MILLION DOLLARS OVER
ONE YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(P)—Total value of farm crops this year was reported today by the department of agriculture as $4,782,626,000, compared with revised figures of $4,114,265,000 for last year and $2,382,195,000 for 1932.

The effect of the agricultural adjustment program, shown as an extent in the values as well as in the total acreage of crops harvested.

The acreage harvested this year was 288,607,610 acres against 327,127,860 for last year and 359,527,880 two years ago.

Of the smallest production in more than half a century, principally because of this summer's drought, was valued at $1,085,556,000, compared with $924,930,000 for last year and $508,902,000 for two years ago.

Corn was valued at $1,360,718,000 bushels and acreage 87,486,000, compared with 2,251,558,000 bushels and 103,260,000 acres last year and 2,906,873,000 bushels and 108,668,000 acres two years ago.

Wheat production is almost 300,000,000 bushels less than last year, but during the five years, 1927-31. Value of the total crop this year is $482,441,000, compared with $358,048,000 last year and $238,328,000 for 1932.

Total wheat production this year was 496,468,000 bushels and acreage 87,486,000, compared with 528,975,000 bushels and 87,486,000 acres last year, and 571,140,000 and 745,788,000 bushels in 1932.

Cotton production, the smallest since 1898, with the exception of the year 1918, a value of $202,314,000 for lint and $154,106,000 for cottonseed, as compared with $311,743,000 for lint and $278,738,000 for seed last year, and $371,840,000 for lint and $353,836,000 for seed two years ago.

Cottonseed production this year, showing effect of the acreage curtailment program is 9,731,000 bales and the acreage 27,515,000 acres, compared with 13,047,000 bales and 29,978,000 acres last year and 13,001,000 bales and 29,939,000 acres two years ago.

Production was 4,324,000 tons, compared with 5,304,000 tons last year and 5,783,000 tons two years ago.

ALLRED VISITING
NATIONAL CAPITAL
ON GOOD WILL TRIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(P)—James V. Allred, governor-elect of Texas, began a "good will" trip today to the capital today with a view to discussing "things in general" with the Texas, Allred, his wife, and Jack Blyskal, an Austin, Texas, attorney, inspected the capitol building, and then went to the office of Morris Sheppard, Texas' senior senator.

Allred said he had no definite plans for his three or four-day stay in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(P)—Governor-elect James V. Allred of Texas arrived in the capital early today on a "good will" and "inspection" trip.

Allred said it would be a good idea to let officials up here know officially that there will be a new governor in Texas shortly. Allred said, "Frankly, I have no particular purpose in mind in coming to Washington. I am anxious to meet the Texas senators and congressmen as well as other government officials."

The young executive, who will succeed Governor Miriam A. Ferguson next month, and his wife were late in leaving their train for St. Louis and hurried to a Northside hotel for breakfast before starting a long round of visits.

Allred said he had wired Vice-President John N. Garner before leaving Austin, Texas, and hoped to be able to see the Texan "first thing." They have been close friends for a number of years.

Allred said he also hoped to see Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, and possibly President Roosevelt, although he had not made definite appointments with either.

"We expect to see the sights while we are here," he said with a smile as he turned to his wife and referred to a possible trip to the botanical gardens. Mrs. Allred termed her previous visit here as a "flying trip" and she complained she did not get to see the city.

Too Much Responsibility.
Allred, present attorney general of Texas, said he did not plan to seek creation of a special oil and gas commission in Texas to replace the present railroad commission as the regulatory body on oil matters—a proposal actively sponsored by Governor Ferguson and her advisor-husband, James E. Ferguson, himself a former governor.

"I don't want to take the responsibility of appointing a group of men to handle such an important matter," he said.

Allred declared that "things are running fine" in Texas and he felt he could spare a few days before being sworn into office. He said he came to Washington in preference to making a hunting trip in South Texas.

George H. Mahon of Colorado, Texas, off of Texas four new representatives, arrived on the same train to open his office for the year. Nat Paton of Crockett, another recently-elected representative, was in the city for a few days last week but returned to Texas. The others are Charles L. South of Coleman and Maury Maverick of San Antonio.

EXECUTIVES NINETY LEADING BUSINESSES TO AID GOVERNMENT

ALSO RECOMMEND SUBSTITUTING DOLE FOR PUBLIC WORLD RELIEF PLAN

By J. R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(P)—Business leaders of America have virtually decided to advocate cooperation with the government, without specifically naming the Roosevelt administration.

Convened here as the "joint business conference for recovery" some 90 top executives found themselves in accord today on several principles which were being summarized in a preamble extending the olive branch in broadest terms.

The executives were expected to carry the results of their deliberations to the white house immediately, to indicate the business viewpoint before congress convenes.

The business men further were pronounced to offer their aid to the President in combating extreme legislation.

They expect also to offer a plan for recovery, but it remained to be seen whether this plan will state specifically or generally what business believes it can do.

John Rankin of General Motors led his colleagues on a committee which he heads through an almost all-night session in an attempt to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(P)—Substitution of the role for the present work relief plan, appeared as a likely recommendation today for inclusion in the platform being drawn by 36 chiefs of American commerce for advancement of the nation.

The committee drafting a program for presentation to a plenary session of the "joint business conference" for recovery was in session until nearly dawn, struggling amid scenes of frequent exhaustion to write a platform that would present a united "cooperative" view of the nation's needs and be acceptable to a majority of the conferees.

Recommendation of relief on the basis of the cash-relief plan, as is used in England, is a cheaper and better way to help the jobless than the work-relief system now in operation. Furthermore, it was urged, direct relief would be a greater incentive to industry to absorb workers.

Public Works Fall.
There was comment from several quarters in the conference that business leaders apparently are abandoning the attitude that the government can stimulate employment by public works expenditures.

Another apparently certain recommendation of the committee was approval of plans generally approved by labor, which would strengthen the hand of business in labor quarrels.

It was indicated the recommendation would urge passage of legislation to prevent coercion of workers into unions by other workers and also prohibit their coercion by companies into company unions. Also the labor clause was expected to advocate that strikers be called only after a vote of workers and for outlawing of sympathetic strikes.

The opinion of business leaders on unemployment insurance was that it surely should be included in any permanent plan for American future life but that immediate adoption of the plan is impracticable.

ECONOMISTS ATTACK
SALES TAX; INCOME
LEVY IS SUGGESTED

AUSTIN, Dec. 18.—(P)—A series of witnesses representing natural gas interest in West Texas today warned the senate tax committee that industry could not bear additional taxation.

Heavy additional levies witnesses said, likely would force suspension of many operations, especially in the original West Texas area. The committee also was apprised of losses incurred by gasoline extraction plants, and of meagre margins upon which they were forced to operate.

All opposed substitution of a flat rate basis tax for the current levy of 2 per cent of the gross value of natural gas. Witnesses included Henry Brown, Houston, Midland Gasoline Company; J. H. Boyle, Tulsa, Hanlon Gasoline Company; R. L. Ponsler, Cisco, Hickok Producing and Development Company; and F. D. Wright, Cisco, attorney for numerous independent producers and land and royalty owners.

WAR-TIME INCOME TAX RETURNS OF MEN CONNECTED WITH WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD BE SCANNED

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—The war-time income tax returns of men connected with war industries board are under scrutiny, senate investigators of munitions said today, as they sought to learn who ordered the returns of Bernard M. Baruch, and others destroyed.

Giving no indications that they thought the work was irregular, the members of the committee nevertheless expressed determination to scan the tax documents of all men connected with the war industries board, which mobilized resources under the direction of Baruch.

Chairman Nye (R-Ind.) served a written request on the internal revenue bureau to destroy no more tax papers; he told his agents to find out why the returns were destroyed and who in the bureau was responsible. Officials said it was legal to burn old returns. They offered no immediate explanations of why Baruch's 1917 return was saved while those for 1918-19 are missing.

Baruch, recently named by President Roosevelt to head a group studying way to make war profitable, last night offered to supply the committee with copies of the returns from his own files. In a statement in New York, he called the testimony yesterday "cheap and unjustified."

Late yesterday the committee heard testimony that Lieut. Col. William Williams of the ordinance department, whose tax returns were held among those missing had held stocks in the Du Pont company and had signed contracts with the firm involving almost $50,000,000. He also, the testimony said, was interested in United States steel and other firms.

JAPAN ABROGATES
WASHINGTON NAVAL TREATY WEDNESDAY

ALSO ANNOUNCES READI-NESS MEET ANY SITUATION WHICH MIGHT ARISE

By GLENN BARR
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
TOKYO, Dec. 19.—(P)—The Japanese government acted today to scrap the Washington naval treaty and expressed confidence in its "readiness to meet any situation which might arise" as a result.

In a ceremony regarded as historic, the powerful army council recommended abrogation of the limitation pact to Emperor Hirohito, whose speedy approval is expected. The action in effect constituted abrogation.

Speaking for the privy council, Baron Kichiro Hirayama, vice president, said: "The Imperial government desires continuation of clauses of the Washington treaty relating to limitation of fortifications and naval bases in the Pacific ocean, but if such clauses are terminated the government is prepared to cope with such a situation."

Assurances were made that the government would strive to conclude a new naval treaty replacing the Washington treaty, with 5-5-3 ratio, which Japan had agreed to accept in exchange for a national security.

Official notification probably will not be given the United States until the week between Christmas and New Year's, when the final date was not set. A letter of notification will be called Ambassador Saito in Washington after it is drafted at a cabinet session Friday.

Many Japanese leaders regarded the step as the most momentous since the country has taken since it entered the World War.

Through the denunciation, the Washington treaty will expire December 31, 1936. For 18 years the pact has held naval programs of the world's great sea powers in check. Building races have been predicted to result from its end.

Tri-Power Naval Conversations End

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(P)—The tri-power naval conversations which have been in progress here for the last two months terminated today without any immediate prospect that a new naval limitation treaty would be formulated.

The delegates of Great Britain, the United States and Japan met in Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's room in the house of commons and formally ended the conversations. They set no date for further discussions or for a conference next year.

In many weeks of conversations, the three delegations have been unable to agree to a new treaty to succeed the Washington pact of 1922, which Japan soon will denounce chiefly because of its purpose to grant the Japanese demand for full equality.

"Although the three governments represented in these conversations," said the communique issued at the close of the conference, "were in favor of a continuation of naval limitation with such reduction as can be agreed upon by all the powers concerned, the principles of the methods for achieving this in the future remained to be determined."

The communique said that the discussions "while saved a useful purpose" adding that "every aspect of the naval problem has been discussed between the parties frankly, fully, and amicably."

Without foundation.
The United States, he said, has no such proposal under consideration.

The London treaty automatically expires Dec. 31, 1936.

Hull declined comment on the end of the naval talks in London, or on the Japanese privy council's action in approving that nation's projected denunciation of the pact.

WOMAN IS HANGED HULL PRISON FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

BELEATED EFFORTS SECURE
REPRIEVE FAIL IN PETI-TION ROYALTY

By MURDETTE T. JOHNS
Associated Press Foreign Staff
HULL, England, Dec. 19.—(P)—After appeals to the king, and queen had failed to save her, Mrs. Ethel Lillie Major, gaunt 41-year-old mother of two children, was hanged today at Hull prison.

The black flag was hoisted over the penitentiary when she went to her death, the first woman to be executed in England in eight years. Until the end she maintained she was innocent of the charge of murdering her husband by poison.

Three hundred curious persons milled about outside the prison as she mounted the gallows. The trap was sprung at 9:00 a. m. (4:00 a. m., eastern standard time). Two grim faced policemen paced back and forth keeping the crowd on the move.

Final urgent appeal for clemency by Lord Mayor Stark of Hull, the last addressed to Buckingham Palace, were fruitless. The appeal to the king and queen was turned over to the home secretary's office, which replied tersely: "The decision of the home secretary is already known."

Few Appeared Interested.
The jury which convicted Mrs. Major had recommended clemency.

THE STORY OF 1934 :: 4.—Farmer Takes Drought In Stride, With AAA Adding To Cash Income

This is the fourth in a daily series of 12 articles.
By STEPHEN McDONOUGH
WASHINGTON (AP).—The American farmer took the most devastating year since 1881 in his stride. One year ago farm prices had, hesitantly improved, credit was slightly looser, and cash a little freer, but back of such indications lay a fear that perhaps the bottom of the farm depression had not been reached.

Then in the spring of 1934 began the worst agricultural conditions the country ever had seen. Heat rose to record-breaking heights while rainfall declined to nothing over large areas. Twenty-seven states were affected seriously. Grasshoppers consumed thousands of acres of growing crops while chinch bugs sucked the moisture out of other thousands.

Yields of food grains and cotton were drastically reduced, production of feed, forage, and pasture declined to nothing over a wide area, and a heavy reduction in livestock numbers was made necessary.

Farmers' Income Rose
The drought, coupled with the farm administration's acreage curtailment, brought wheat production down to 497,000,000 bushels, smallest since 1883, and the corn output to 1,372,000,000 bushels, smallest since 1881. Most other crops, except vegetables and fruits grown in restricted sections of the east and south, suffered in similar fashion.

Despite this calamity cash income of farmers totaled about $6,000,000,000 for the calendar year, an increase of 15 per cent over the figure of $5,061,000,000 for 1933, and 39 per cent above the low level of $4,228,000,000 in 1932. About $550,000,000, or 10 per cent of this increase came from benefit payments of the AAA in return for reduction in acreage; slightly more than $100,000,000 came from emergency sale of cattle and sheep to the AAA; about $30,000,000 came in payments for cattle destroyed by the government after they had been found to be tubercular or infected with Bang's disease. The remainder came from the sale of farm products and non-farm work done by farmers and their families.

As drought damage continued to increase, prices of farm products slumped in response. Cotton rose from 9.5 cents a pound on the farm to 12.3 at the close of the year. Wheat went up from 70 cents a bushel to 90, corn increased from 40 to 75 per cent a bushel, and hogs from $3.50 a hundredweight to $5.00. Part of these increases was attributed to President Roosevelt's devaluation of the dollar.

Reduction Quotas Whittled
The index of all farm prices rose from 80 to 102, expressed in terms of the 1909-1914 average, thus touching and slightly exceeding the much-talked-of "parity" point toward which the AAA has been driving since it started a year and a half ago. These prices were not truly indicative, however, since prices paid by farmers went up from 116 to 128 and a ratio of prices received to prices paid went up only from 69 to 81.

The farm administration, starting on its permanent program of adjusting production to the level of domestic demand plus whatever amounts can be sold abroad, announced for 1935 a 10 per cent reduction in wheat acreage, instead of the 15 per cent in force during 1934, curtailment of cotton by 25 per cent compared to 40 per cent slicing of corn production by 10 to 30 per cent instead of 20 to 30, and curtailment of hog numbers by 10 per cent instead of 25.

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS BELIEVED CLOSER THAN EVER

SPEECH OF SIR JOHN SIMON, FOREIGN SECRETARY, IS PLEASING TO AMERICANS

By HAROLD P. BHAMAN
Associated Press Foreign Staff.
LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A belief that Anglo-American relations were strengthened by a speech of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, reviewing tri-power naval conversations, was expressed today by the American delegation.

The reaffirmation by Sir John of the thesis that existing naval treaties provide equality through security, pleased Norman H. Davis and Admiral William H. Standley, the delegates from Washington.

Sir John indicated Great Britain would stand firm with the United States against Japanese demands for naval parity. His address last night was broadcast in the United States.

The British statesman's remarks were particularly reassuring to Americans, coming a few hours after Japan had, in effect, abrogated the Washington Naval treaty of 1922 and the tri-powered naval talks here had ended.

Two years remain, Sir John pointed out, "in which to try to arrive at a new agreement."

LOUISIANA

Long's impeachment in 1929. "Effavor," within 15 minutes after the vote on the bill had been taken John B. Fournet, president of the senate, reversed his ruling that the bill had been defeated and declared it had passed. At the time Long was standing on the president's dais.

The five cents tax on every barrel of 45 gallons of oil refined was slipped into an apparently harmless measure dealing with occupational license taxes as the senate met today.

Things began to pop with amazing rapidity in both houses. Rep. Long, who had been in the senate, said he was leaving the senate to go to the oil fields. "That was what I called the legislature for," Long said in reference to the oil tax.

A minor Long bill, raising the salary of the assistant attorney general of Rapides Parish to $2,400 was killed in the senate by a vote of 22 yeas and 11 nays, because it failed to receive a two-thirds vote of the entire elected membership.

Explosions reverberated in the house. There, Rep. N. S. Hoffpauir, Acadia Parish administrator, said the oil tax law "places an occupational tax on the refining of crude oil."

"It is nothing but reasonable that this should be paid," he said. "You remember the provisions are that it shall go to the property tax relief fund. Any surplus raised will go to that fund."

Dictator Long Rounds Up Absent Senators
BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 20.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long cracked his whip over the Louisiana legislature, ordering all absent members of the senate to take their seats and pass the 31 bills of his program for a super-dictatorship.

One absentee senator, A. F. Fredericks, president of Louisiana Normal College, was told to take his place or submit to arrest. Fredericks hopped promptly into his car at Natchitoches and drove to Baton Rouge to vote.

The political potentate of Louisiana took no chances in this, the last day of his third special session of the legislature this year,

The present year saw the American farmer suffer from the worst drought in the country's history and emerge to face what seemed to some a brighter future. Twenty-seven states were seriously affected, with heat rising to record-breaking heights, and rainfall declining to nothing over large areas. The drought, together with the farm administration's crop curtailment, program, made prices of farm products rise, and by the end of the year the cash income of the farmer stood at almost a billion dollars above that of 1933.

An outstanding development was the trend away from voluntary control of production on the part of farmers to compulsion under which cotton and tobacco were given definite production allotments and taxed heavily if they attempted to market any goods in excess of their quotas. While the new AAA was busy at its adjustment problems older divisions of the department of agriculture continued engrossed in their many-sided activities ranging from predicting tomorrow's weather to searching the Hingyan mountains and the Gobi desert of Asia for new grass plants.

COURT RULES LONG MUST STAND TRIAL IN BIG LIBEL SUIT

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA SUPREME COURT REJECTS SENATOR'S IMMUNITY PLEA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The District of Columbia supreme court ruled today that Senator Huey Long of Louisiana must face trial on the $500,000 libel suit filed against him by Samuel F. Ansell. Justice Peyton Gordon, who delivered the opinion, rejected Long's claim that his senate position entitled him to immunity from the libel action.

Ansell, a former judge advocate general of the army, was counsel for the senate committee which investigated the election of Senator John H. Overton of Louisiana.

Attorneys said the decision meant that Ansell's suit against Long would go to trial soon unless Long files an appeal. Long already has taken one appeal to the United States supreme court in a vain effort to avoid trial.

Offerings in Kettles Salvation Army Grow

As Christmas nears the people of Corsicana are becoming more liberal in their donations to charitable institutions. Collections in the Salvation Army Kettles Wednesday netted $28.48, bringing the total to $189.95 to be used for purchasing Christmas dinners for the poor of the city. Included in the collections Wednesday were ten silver dollars that were wrapped in paper, a donation perhaps from some church, Sunday school or other organization.

Pictures are the only way to keep those memories fresh. The only way to retain those childhood stories for your children and themselves. Why don't you make more pictures, especially at such times as Xmas. Go by the City Book Store and let them load your camera so you will be ready Xmas day to take some pictures. Of course, we probably won't have snow, but there will be lots of interesting pictures to be taken just the same.

STUNT EXERCISING FOR BEAUTY

DO STUNTS FOR BEAUTY
Today Miss Forbes suggests some stunts to stretch and limber the body, which will amuse you, and at the same time exercise you and make you better looking.

If all women who hate exercise like, poison would try stunt exercising for beauty, they might get a lot of fun out of the process of improving their looks. For instance, here are some stunts which you can do which are very healthy and which will improve your figure, and which you won't find in least monotonous.

The first stunt is to stretch yourself a little over like a cat the very first thing in the morning, stretching your back, each arm and leg separately, stretching out your toes as far as you can, stretching your head as far forward and backward as possible—this latter is a general way of loosening stiff muscles, you will want to do more than that for your general health.

Suppose you sit around too long all day. It does not matter whether it is on a hard office chair, or in a luxurious limousine the effect will be the same. The rear part of your body will begin to spread apart as well as you may think. Well, you lie on the floor on your tummy, elbows under you and your chin on your hands. Then you raise your feet and legs just as high up in the air as you can get them, and you lower them slowly to the floor. You repeat this with suitable intervals for rest a couple of dozen times every day. Remember that those muscles back there do not exercise themselves, and that to have them trained costs money.

Another great fault is round shoulders, which give you a hunched over figure and make you look 45 when you're still in your twenties. To strengthen and straighten this part of you, lie on the floor on your stomach, as before, pass your hands behind you and raise your chest and head as far off the floor as possible, without moving your feet.

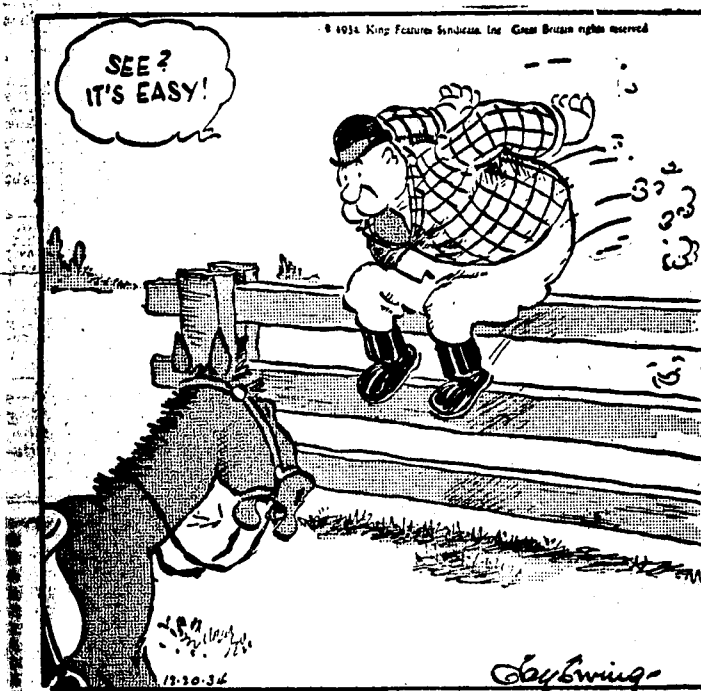

L. R.—Try one of the bathmats made from fine straw, or just a complexion brush that will give enough friction to bring the blood to the skin fully. A full bath all over of this kind will also help the complexion. Lou are fortunate that the condition has not taken much of a hold, so by stimulating the skin into greater activity, while you are also clearing out those blackheads, you will very soon effect a recovery. Plenty of warm water, soap, friction, then very cold water to close the pores at the end, will be the best sort of home remedy you can have for freeing your skin of those tiny blackheads. In the places where they are particularly bad, rub a little oil into the skin before you begin the cleansing.

K. N. B.—You will be able to get the rubber sleeves for the upper arms in the places where they sell corsets and girdles. The sleeves are made from the same material as that of the reducing corsets.

Mrs. L.—The walnut stain is made by steeping American walnuts in boiling water, and letting them remain in the steep until there is enough color to stain a piece of any kind of white cloth. The strength of the color will be right for staining the white hairs. Shampoo first and while hair is moist, apply the stain from a small flat brush, over separate strands of hair, brushing from roots to the ends of the hair. In this way, you avoid staining the scalp, and the finger tips. If you can get the hulls, whether green or dry, you may steep them and get the color much sooner than from the shells of the walnuts.

CHRISTMASTIDE FLOWS DEEPLY IN HUMAN HEARTS THIS YEAR *

Profound Social and Economic Effects of Mellowed Mood—Some Unusual Significances Of Christmas—A Traveller's Memories Of Nativity Scenes.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

With especial reason this year we call the great holiday "Christmastide." For it is on the deep-flowing tides of the time that our dependence is placed for emergence from the world's dark days. By now it should be clear to everybody that no measure of statecraft or economics is going to remedy existing untoward conditions. Only a new mood, a new purpose, in the hearts of people generally can do what is needed. The vast changes already effected in the public life of the nations have cleared resulted from a tide of popular feeling—a tide surging through the hearts of the common people.

Now we are trusting to Christmastide to sweep us further onward. For Christmas does its work through the mellowed spirits of uncounted millions everywhere on earth. I never heard of a public official's reckoning with Christmas as a factor in the affairs of the day. But it is nevertheless, I do not allude to the increased volume of business which the day always brings; but to the far more important increase of the volume of good will, of brotherliness, of generosity and of unselfishness which flows everywhere at Christmastide. And these are exactly the qualities which we need for a real recovery.

In a word, the world must be reorganized from the bottom upward, and not from the top downward. It always has been so.
Deliberations and decisions of legislatures and economic conferences are less effective than the spontaneous move within the hearts of the people. The great reconstruction is built upon human hearts. If our changes are made in the spirit of Christmas—which is "Peace on earth, among men of good will"—then all will be well.

Unexpected Recruits.
There are more servants of Christmas than we commonly reckon. The army of heaven (for that is literally the meaning of "heavenly hosts") which first sang the Christmas message above Judea's barren hills have had many and unexpected recruits. It is a Christmas exercise to let our thoughts dwell upon the uncounted and unmeasured volume of books and songs
and essays and sermons and pictures which have taken up the Christmas song and echoed it unceasingly. No other theme has produced so much literature, art and eloquence.

Nowadays, in a literal sense,
Christmas is "in the air;" for all of the world's radio stations are carolling and speaking the year-old Christmas story; which first came from the upper reaches of the atmosphere.

Nobody has ever attempted a computation of the number of Christmas cards and other green-ings that are passed from person
to person in any given year.
Think of the thousands of artists
and authors who have been employed in producing these; and of the myriads of printers and engravers and salesmen—all returning to the first Christmas
day.

Every year I receive Christmas greetings from Japan and China and India and Persia and Iraq and Syria and Palestine and Egypt and Turkey. These remind me, incidentally, that even the non-Christian lands of the world have kept today—a universal testimony to the presenceness of the influence of the savior who was born a babe at Christmas.

A Traveller's Memories
This pen flows most freely
when writing upon the Christmas theme; for all the scenes of the Nativity story are familiar to me. I have gone, more times than I can count, to Bethlehem
and to the oldest of churches, which covers the scene of the humble village Khan. I have attended formal Christmas services there; and I have at times stood alone in the decorated stone crypt which the most sacred spot in Christianity; for there Jesus was born.

I have wandered over the unfamed paths of the Shepherds, where chilled and weary

working men found their vigil over their flocks interrupted by celestial visitants, with the Good News. Thousands of pictures have represented the visit of the shepherds to the stable with its mother and Child; but the greatest of these is the one which er wonder, seldom portrayed by art, was the scene in the open fields when the Announcement came to a group of bewildered peasants.

As I know Bethlehem, so also
I know Nazareth, the home town of Jesus and His parents; and the old road that links the two, up and down which so much of the Bible history was enacted.
Stretching farther than our common occidental understanding knows, runs the road of the Wise Men; and that, too, I have traveled. They came later in the story, following a star which the shepherds never saw. They found Mary and Joseph and the Wonder Child no longer in a stable, but in a house. There had been a long, hard pilgrimage, from far Persia, across Mesopotamia and Arabia, and then, probably by way of Damascus, down through the Land of Promise. Of all the camel caravans that have ever made this wearisome journey—we do it now by automobile, within twenty-four hours—this was the most noteworthy. None of the historic marchings and counter-marchings of kings and conquerors over this route has the significance of this journey of the Magi, bearing the tribute of learning and wealth to the Babe of Bethlehem.

Amidst hard times, it is well to recall that other journey, which is part of the Christmas story;
when the Holy Family, enriched
by the gifts of the Wise Men, fled from Bethlehem down the route the patriarchs knew, to Hebron, Beersheba, and through the flinty wastes of Sinai to Egypt, where they found refuge from bloody Herod's jealousy. I wonder if they stopped at Kadesh-barnea on the way, and drank from the Spring of Moses?
Certainly, much of the talk of Joseph and Mary was of the wis-doms and wanderings of the Children of Israel amidst these same scenes.

A Great Story's Simplicity
One natural reason why the Christmas story makes such a universal appeal to the hearts of humanity is that it contains all the elemental human factors.
There is the lovely Hebrew maiden, Mary, her chaste mind full of girlhood's sacred dreams, who,
wondering and incredulous, received the marvelous news by the Nazareth spring. Then followed the bitter days of misunderstanding in the neighbor's minds.

Joseph, carpenter and gentleman, enters the scene. Great in simple, quiet strength and loyalty was Joseph, one of the real saints of the Bible. His tenor care of his childwife, as with the urgency of her hour drawing near, they journeyed to Bethlehem, the home of their fathers,
for Rome's inexorable census, endears Joseph to all friends of the Christ Child.

Beffied by the crowded state of the town, all houses and inns full, Joseph found friends among his fellow-workmen—always the kindest in the world—and they made room in the warm cave stable, amidst their horses
and donkeys, for the travellers from Nazareth. It is all the simple annals of the poor.

Christmas And The Home
Although it was the birth of a Babe to a temporarily homeless
family that created Christmas, this is, nevertheless, the world's most home-centered festival, with the child in the midst exalted.
This Lesson stresses the home significance of the season. The simple fact that Christmastide surges highest in the home lands is a usual power. For if there is one purpose above another that dwells deep in the average person's heart, in these times of change, it is the resolution to frock with its crisp, contrasting collar and cuffs. There's nothing like long panels back and front with not even a belt to break the line, to give an appearance of slenderness to the figure!—and the notched lapels add a nice faun-tasy touch to the design. A pretty per-

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS Glory to God in the highest,
and on earth peace, good will toward men.—Luke 2:15.

Christ has left His throne of glory,
And a lowly cradle found;
Well might angels tell the story,
Well may we their words resound. —Anon.

Sages, leave your contemplations;
Brighter visions beam afar;
Seek the great Desire of nations;
Ye have seen His natal star;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the new-born
King. —James Montgomery.

He comes, the broken hearts to bind,
The bleeding souls to cure;
And with the treasures of His grace
To enrich the humble poor. —Philip Doddridge.

For God so loved the world,
that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Like Mary, let us ponder in our mind
God's wondrous love in saving lost mankind;
Trace the Babe, who has retrieved our loss,
From His poor manger, to His bitter Cross;
Treading His steps, assisted by His grace,
Till man's first heavenly state
again takes place. —John Byrom.

Strange and bright birth of sky
flame,
Though centuries ago it came,
Yet in each heart, or near or far,
Where faith and love and pity
are,
The Christ-Child with His joyous way
Is born again on Christmas Day. —Harriet Prescott Spofford.

EUGENE R. BLACK DIED IN ATLANTA WEDNESDAY MORNING

ATLANTA, Dec. 19.—(P)—Eugene R. Black, former governor of the federal reserve board, died at his residence here today.

Mr. Black resigned his post recently as head of the federal reserve board, a position to which he was drafted by President Roosevelt, to return to his old job of governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of the sixth district here. He was 61 years old.
Since his return to Atlanta Mr.
Black had been serving as liaison between the banks of the country and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Members of the family said a doctor was called to the residence
last night after Mr. Black complained of being ill. He had been slightly indisposed for the past three days.

He was stricken with a heart attack at 4:30 a. m. and died two hours later. He was a son-in-law of Henry W. Grady, the journalist.

Mr. Black was the son of Eugene Pinckard and Zae Harman Black.

In 1896 he married Miss Gus-salle Grady, daughter of the great southern editor, who survives him.

Other survivors are his daughter, Mrs. Walter H. Wellborn of Atlanta; two sons, Eugene R.
Black, Jr. of New York, and Henry Grady Black of Atlanta.
He was a brother of Justice
William Harman Black of New York and Charles H. Black of Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—
President Roosevelt expressed regret today for the death of Eugene Black who worked with him
for more than a year as governor of the federal reserve board.

Informed of the death at his regular press conference, Mr.
Roosevelt termed Black as a "grand person" and related that he was a "good soldier."

CLAIMED DILLINGER PAID WAY OUT JAIL FOR SUM OF $11,000

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER STORY
SAYS MIDDLEMAN KEPT
LARGE PART MONEY

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(P)—The Daily News today said it had learned that John Dillinger bought his way out of the Crown Point, Ind., jail last March on a promise to pay $11,000. Dillinger, it said, kept his part of the bargain, and that one of the middlemen kept part of the money and those who aided him in the escape actually received only about half that amount.

The News said that details of the Crown Point "wooden gun"

episode and the Dillinger gang's escape from the Indiana state penitentiary were in the hands of Postal Inspectors J. H. McWhorter and J. J. McCarthy and supervising captain, John Stege of the Chicago police.

The information that Dillinger bought his way out of the Crown Point jail, the story related, came from Arthur O'Leary, former investigator for Louis Fugett, Dil-lenger's lawyer, and under indictment with him on a charge of harboring Dillinger.

The Daily News did not name the persons to whom the money was reported to have been paid, stating that as a matter of public policy it was not disclosing any information that might hamper the Indiana state's case against Dillinger accomplices.

Indiana officials, the News said, were ready to return numerous indictments, some of which will include a few Indiana notables, covering the entire history of the Dillinger gang in that state.

Dillinger Paid $11,000.

According to the story, Dillinger paid $11,000 to a middle man, now a federal prisoner, and the middle man, being a little short of money himself, held out on his companions and eventually paid little more than half the amount promised.

This, the News related, brought the following communication from Dillinger to the middleman:

"Dear _____,
No doubt you know by this time how I feel toward you. You know that I sent you money to pay every one that I owed any money to and I find out that you never paid an yof them a cent. I am telling them that I have sent you the money to pay them and when the ycome to you you can tell them why you did not pay them. So far as I am concerned we are through and if _____ wants to contact with me I will go along with them as I have always found him fair."

JOHN DILLINGER.

All Pieces Same Cloth.

The break from the Indiana penitentiary, the "wooden gun" walkout from the Crown Point jail, the "fingering" and slaying of Dillinger himself, the Daily News said, were all pieces of the same cloth.

It related a tale from another source in describing how Dillinger was said to have dealt with South Side cabaret owner in Chicago in an attempt to flee to Mexico. The cabaret owner, the News

said, was to furnish an automobile driven by a negro chauffeur.
In the automobile were to be the cabaret owner's mother and his daughter. Dillinger was to be as a servant the father of the little girl. The plan fell through.
Some of the details of the Dillenger gang's break from the Indiana state penitentiary, according to the Daily News, came from Pearl Hellman Frasnano, a "bugon, blonde now in federal custody,
who, so her story indicates, was
the "prison widow."

Two Corsicana Boys Get Baylor Freshmen Football Numerals

WACO, Dec. 20.—(Spl.)—W. J. Bowlin and Calvin Milburn of Corsicana were among the elgteen football players on the Baylor university freshman squad to be awarded letters for their athletic services this year. Bowlin played a regular halfback position on the Cub team and Milburn was a guard. The efficient play of these two Corsicana products was one of the factors that made it possible for the Bearlets to go through the season undefeated.
